ARCADIA HIGH SCHOOL
PHOENIX, ARIZONA

Arcadia Students Worked Hard,

FAMILIAR to all Arcadians is the "Walk of Olives." Although it is pictured here as nearly deserted, students use it when going to the parking lot, to classes, or just walking around campus. This is just one small part of the outstanding Arcadia High School grounds.

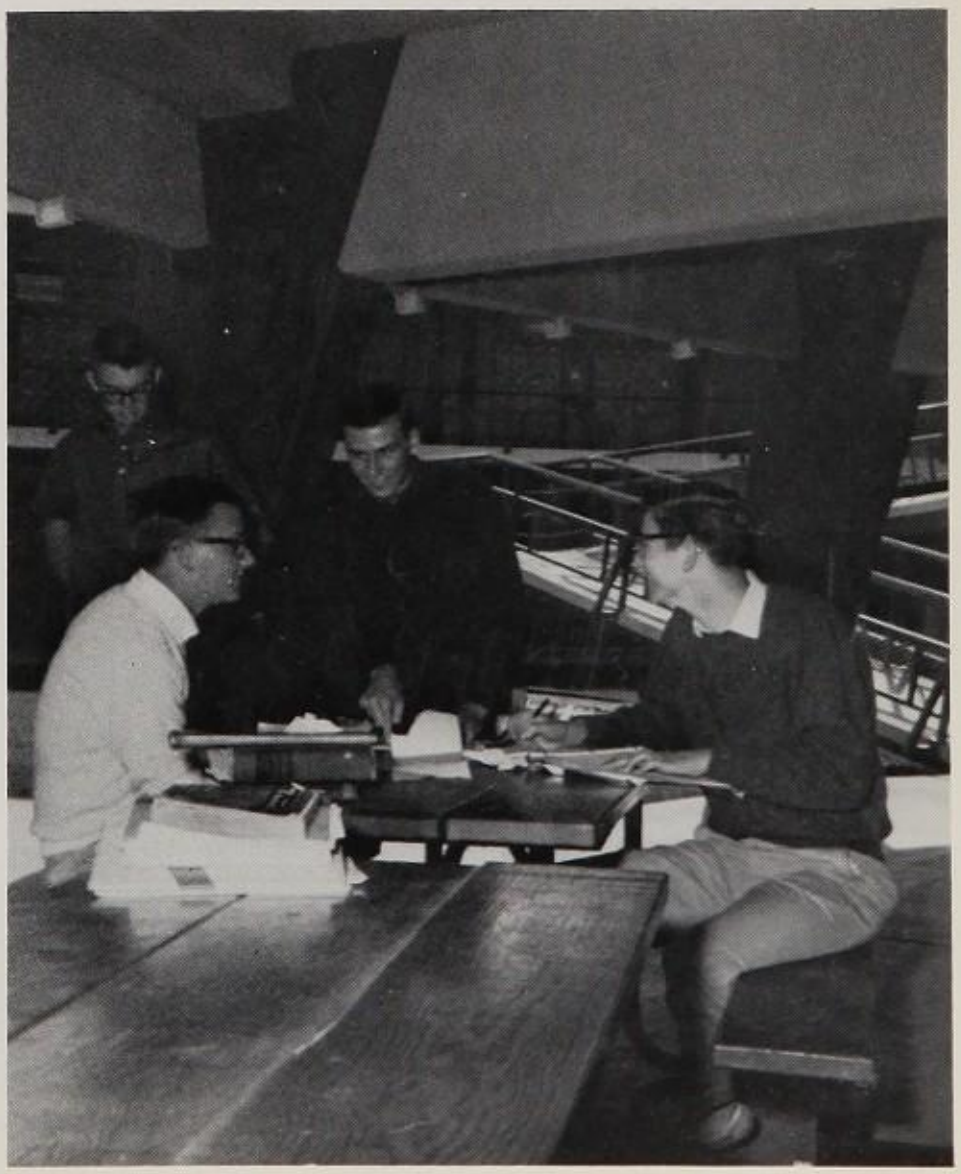
Played Hard, and Came Out on Top

"Sitting, standing, studying under the library." The cool shadiness and the many tables under the library provide an ideal place for students to congregate. During both lunch hours you can't even see across the circle because there are so many people standing under the library.

Posters, painted by various organizations and classes did a lot to boost school spirit. The newest class at Arcadia, the freshmen, did their share of the work, and really got into the high school spirit. Pictured here: Tibby Jones, Kirk Williams, Tom Cooley, and Grove Green, try their hand at a little sign painting.



Everywhere You Go, Everyone

The palm trees, adding beauty and majesty to the campus, stretch regally up to the clear blue skies. They are constant reminders of the ideal climate which Titans enjoy throughout the school year.

Arcadia High School was built and opened for use four years ago. At that time the Class of 1963 enrolled as freshmen, and Arcadia's history officially began. In 1963 those same freshmen were seniors, and they became the first graduating class at Arcadia High to have gone all four years here. Although there will be many, many other graduating classes at Arcadia, the Class of '63 is something special, and to them and their achievements we dedicate this book. Led by outstanding Student Body officers in their senior year, the Class of 1963 made their presence felt in every school activity; leading the way for the underclassmen. Perhaps, twenty years from now, if the Class of '63 has a reunion, they can look back on this book that commemorates their years at Arcadia and remember the good times, the achievements, and the friendships that they found here.

Knows, the Big A Means Arcadia

CAMELBACK Mountain shadows the BIG A, and provides the background for this unusually different school as nothing else could. Arcadia's circular architecture has been a topic of discussion from coast to coast, and people have come from miles around to see it. The BIG A is also noted for its modern classrooms and facilities.

"JUST a few more buckets of cement and they could've filled the whole place in!" was the cryptic comment of one teacher as he looked out over the maze of sidewalks that crisscross the Arcadia campus. The pattern they make suggests a modern painting.

"Give me an A!!" yell the cheerleaders, and the crowd responds with an ear-splitting roar—"AAA". School spirit that was displayed at all sports events carried over into every phase of school activity. Students enthusiastically plunged into all projects of the 1962-63 school year with a zeal that earned Arcadia the title of the "BIG A." Yes, Arcadia was big in everything its students participated in this year and everyone knew it. Students who attended Arcadia noticably grew a few inches as the reputation and prowess of the "BIG A" spread. Rated among the top schools in scholastics, sports, and the fine arts, Arcadians were caught up in the spirit of achievement, and swept along to an enviable record of success. In a word, it was a BIG year.

Arcadia's Campus Plays a Big Part

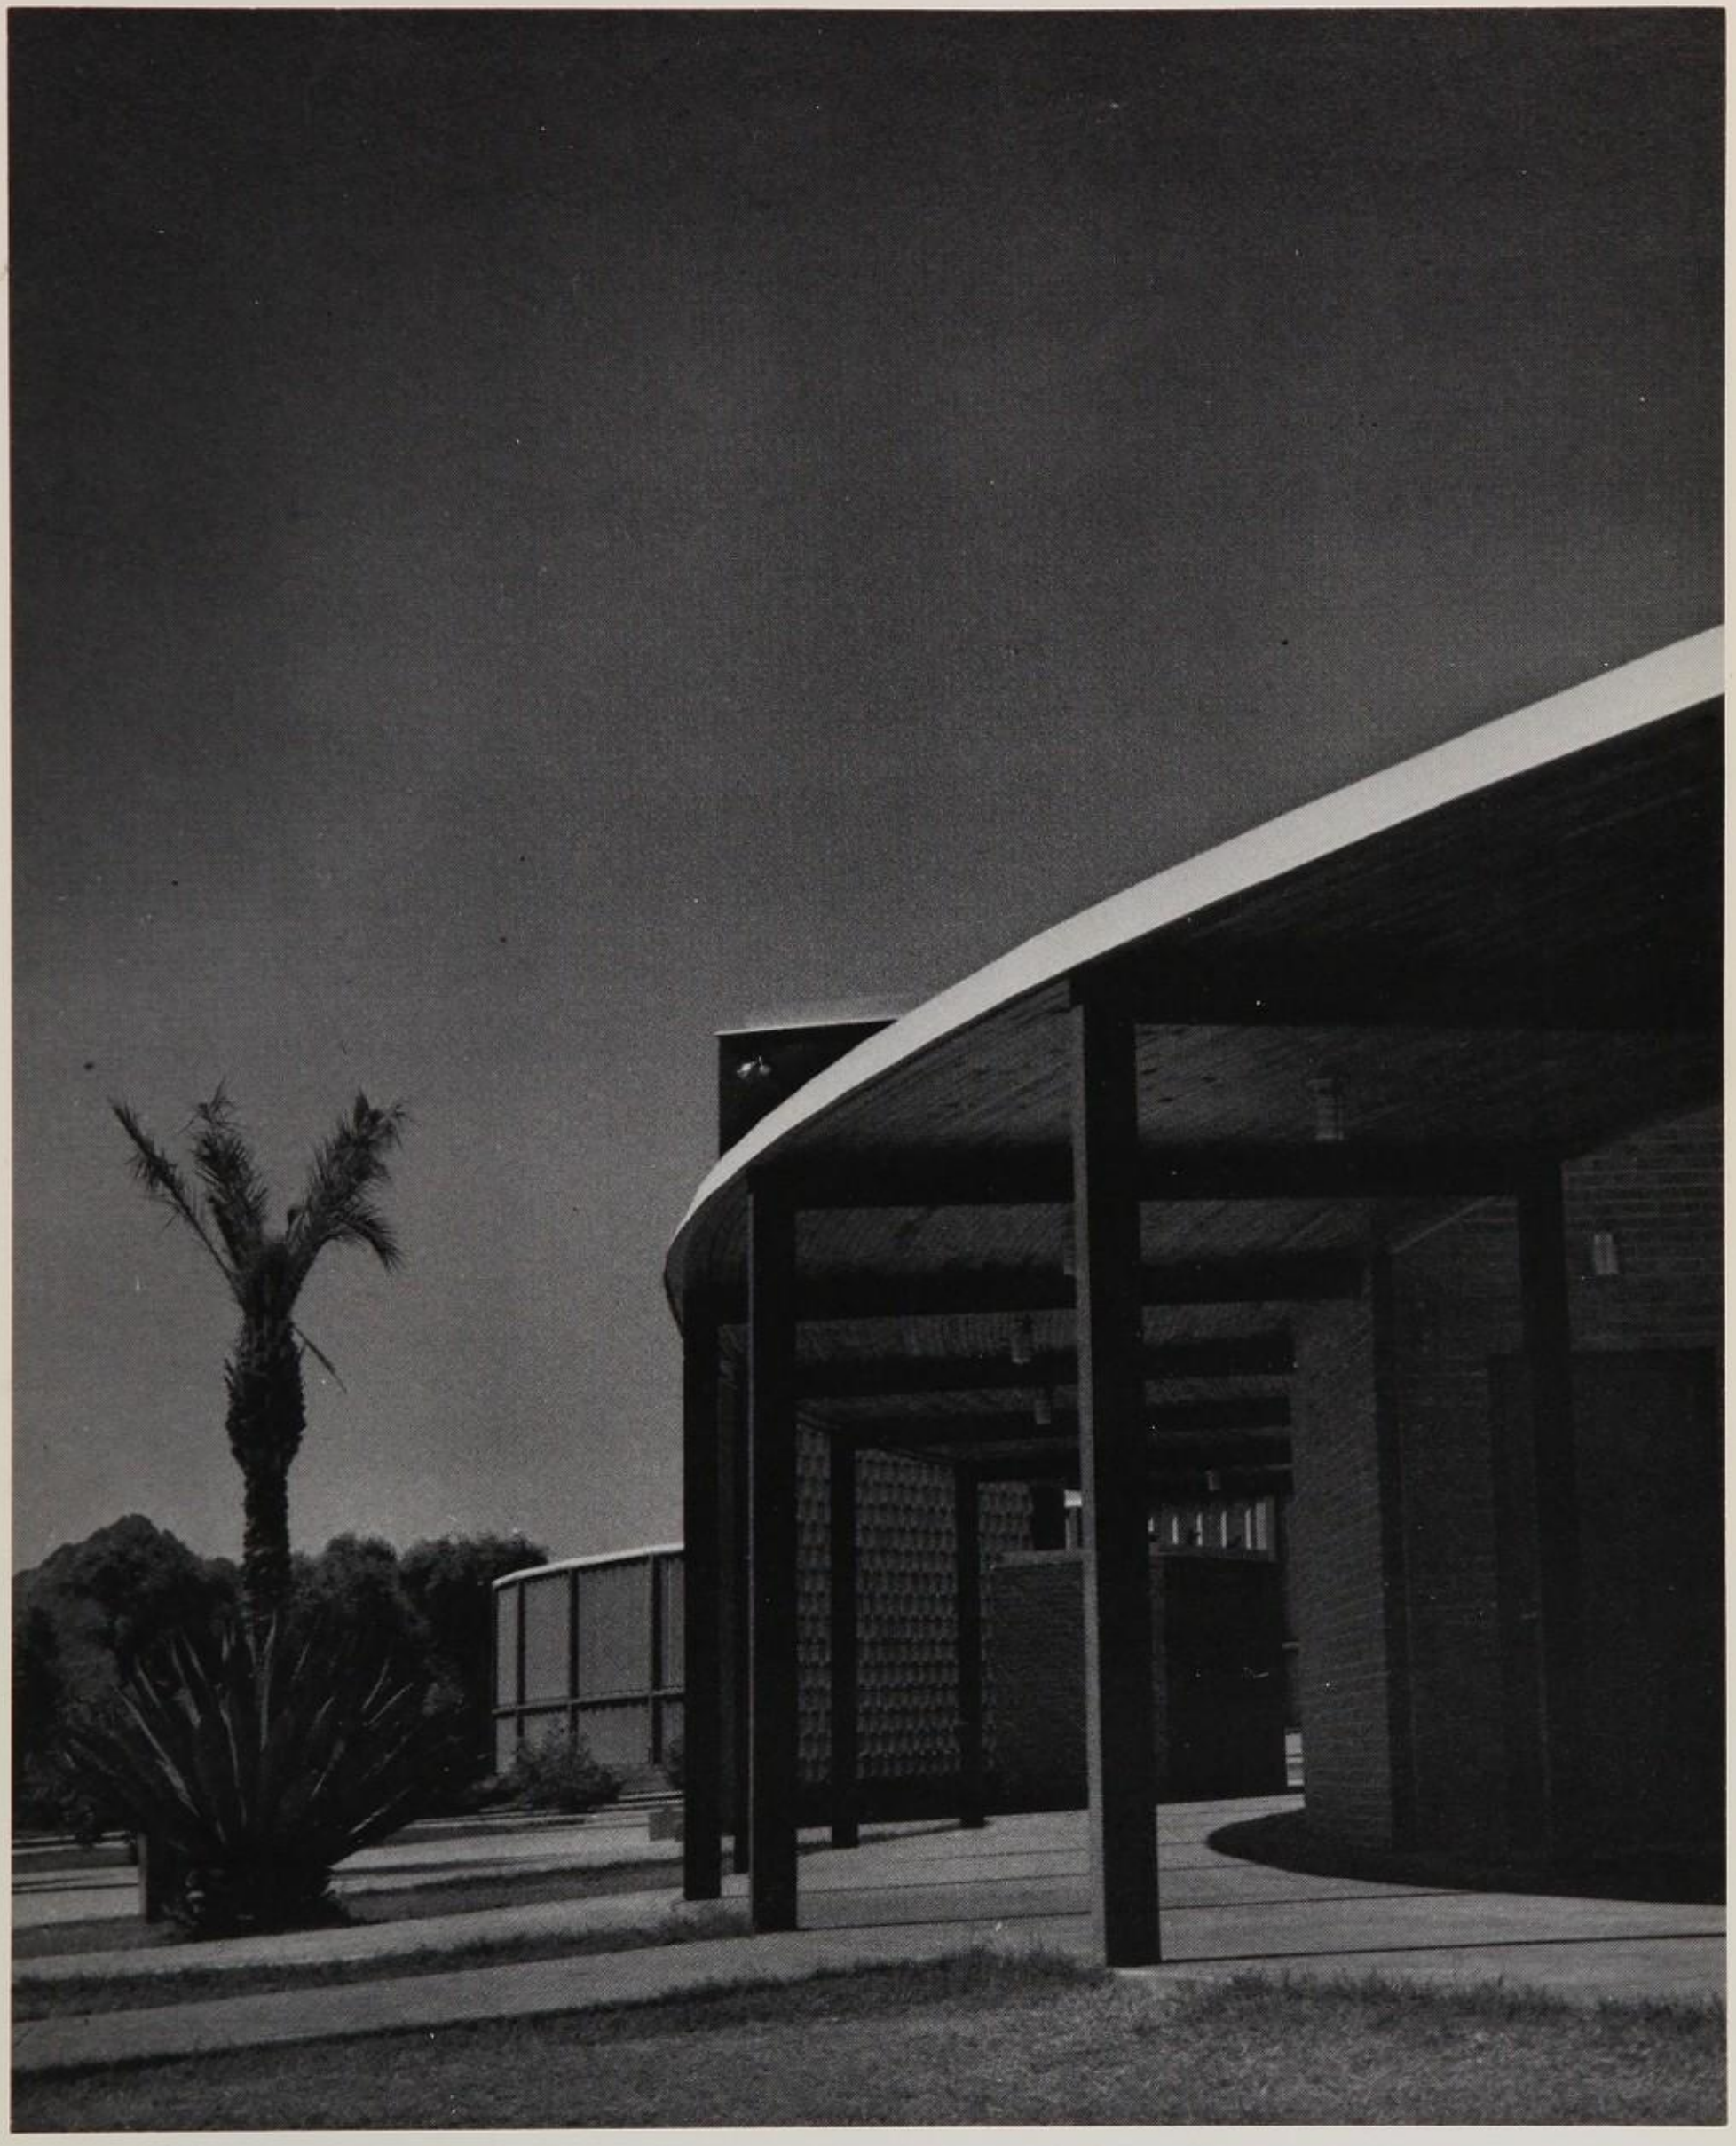
Can this be the Twirp Prom??! Yes, contrary to popular belief, it is. Toward the end of the dance, several mischievous boys started to unobtrusively pull at the green and white crepe paper ceiling. Soon others had gotten into the act, and the ceiling was suddenly entangling dancing couples.

What elements does it take to make the "BIG A"? What ingredients are put into the recipe that goes into the making of a good school? In the case of Arcadia High School, the answer is relatively simple. It takes good sportsmanship, qualified faculty, a beautiful and modern campus, clubs and extracurricular activities, an active administration, blended with an all-round spirit of enthusiasm. "Arcadia" means more than just the name of a high school to the 1800 plus students in attendance. It means good times, studies, and friends, coupled with an over-all sense of organization. That's what the "BIG A" means, and a lot more.

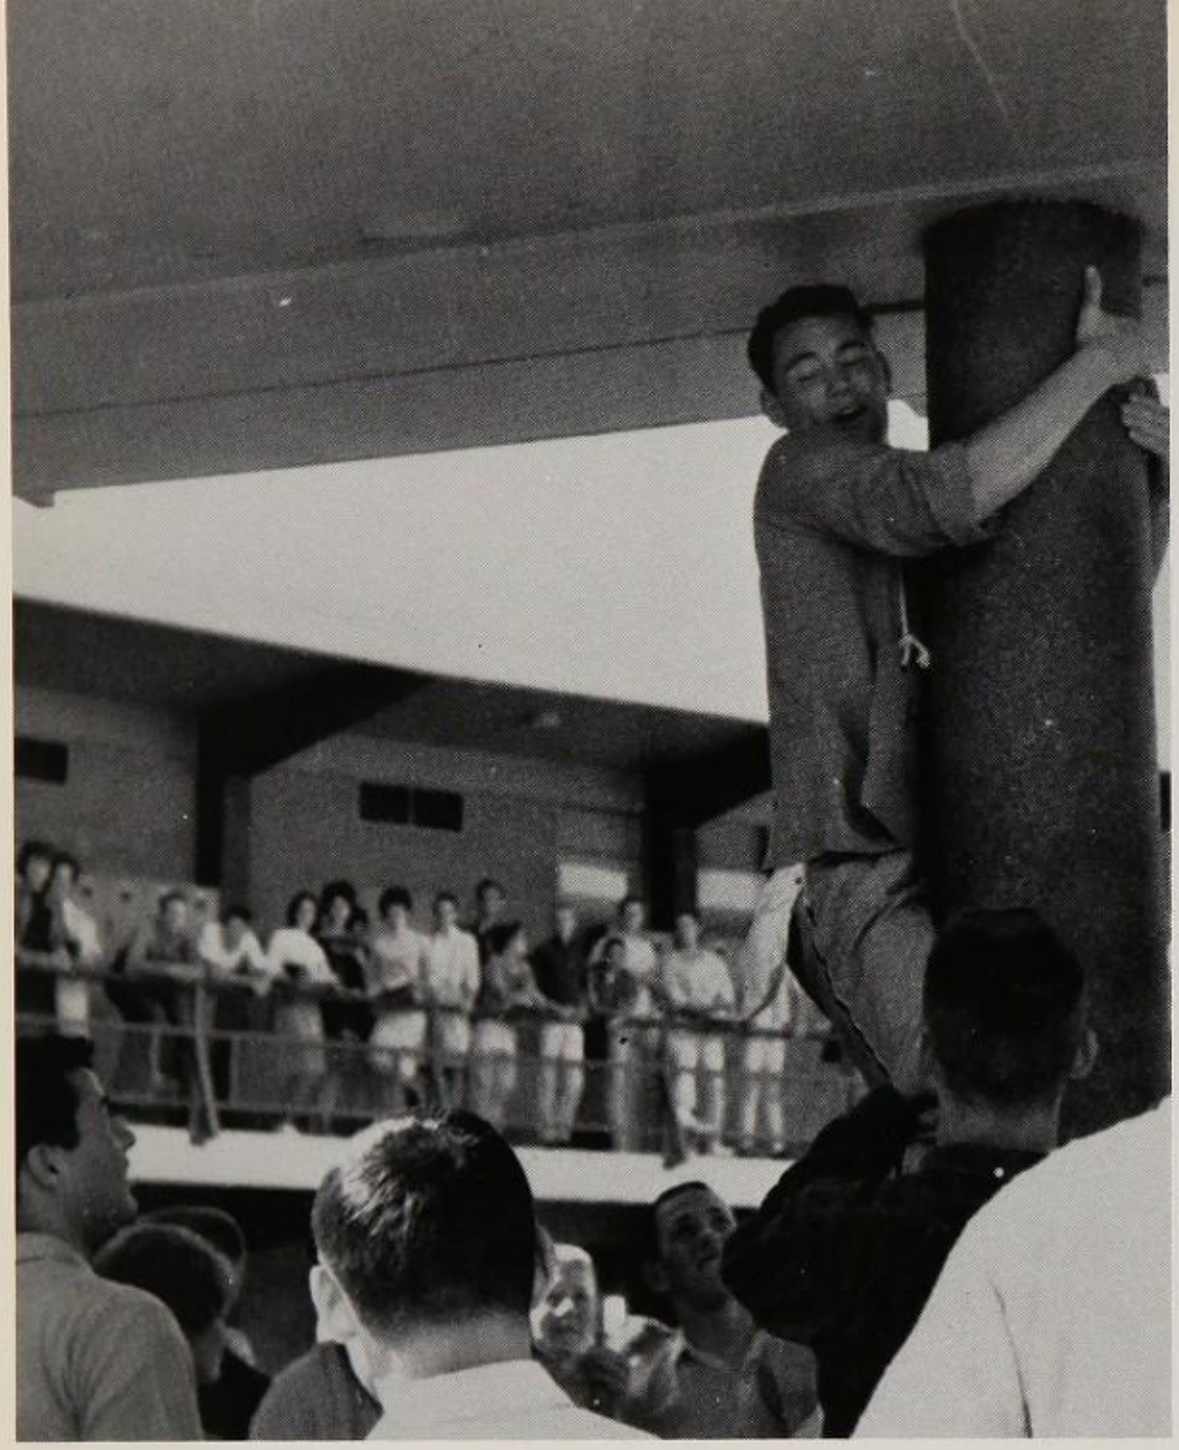
To try to describe Arcadia High School to someone who has never seen it would be next to impossible. Who could describe the spirit with which Arcadia is so liberally endowed, or the exhilarating competition between students, and between other schools. The "BIG A" is truly great, thanks to the efforts of the entire student body and faculty.

Top: Yearbook staff members work separately or in groups to put out the 1963 OLYMPIAN. Bottom: Newspaper staffers Rosemary Moore, Kay Johnson, Denise Taylor, and Nick Nicholson examine different issues of the ARCADIAN to see if they have improved their style.

in Promoting School Spirit



EXEMPLIFYING THE CIRCULAR architecture for which Arcadia High is famous, this picture of the walk-way leading around the auditorium is used by hundreds of students daily. If students from Arcadia constantly complain that they're seeing "circles" you can understand the reason why! Students new to Arcadia usually don't have trouble finding their way around, but they do testify to the fact that their legs get awfully tired.



DURING Letterman's initiation "seats" got paddled, pants were worn backwards, and "HAIL LETTERMEN" reverberated throughout the campus. Above, George Mills climbs a pole under the library as part of his initiation.

Athletics played a big part in the life of Arcadia students during the 1962-63 school year. Strong teams in all three major sports—football, basketball, and baseball—represented the "BIG A" in the AA Athletic Conference.

Clubs and student activities sparked student interest in school affairs. Participation was high, as several new clubs popped up on campus. Clean-up campus days and various service projects were popular with industrious clubs. Gaining needed leadership ability the officers of Arcadia's many clubs devoted their time and themselves to furthering the goals set in the constitution of the "BIG A."

Club and Athletic Activities

ATHLETICS played a big part in the curriculum of Arcadia High students during the 1962-63 school year. Talented boys and girls enthusiastically participated in all phases of athletic activity.

Take Up After-School Time for Titans

Cindy Johnson, captain of the Arcadia Pom Pon girls, presents a cake to the Titan football team, prior to their play-off game with Flagstaff.

Pom Pon girls: Jackie Lindstrom, Jerri Draney, Connie Clark, Linda Jamison, Barbara Rebeske, Peggy O'Gara (holding cake), Micki McFadden and Nancy Kelly.

Student Gov't and Faculty Cooperate

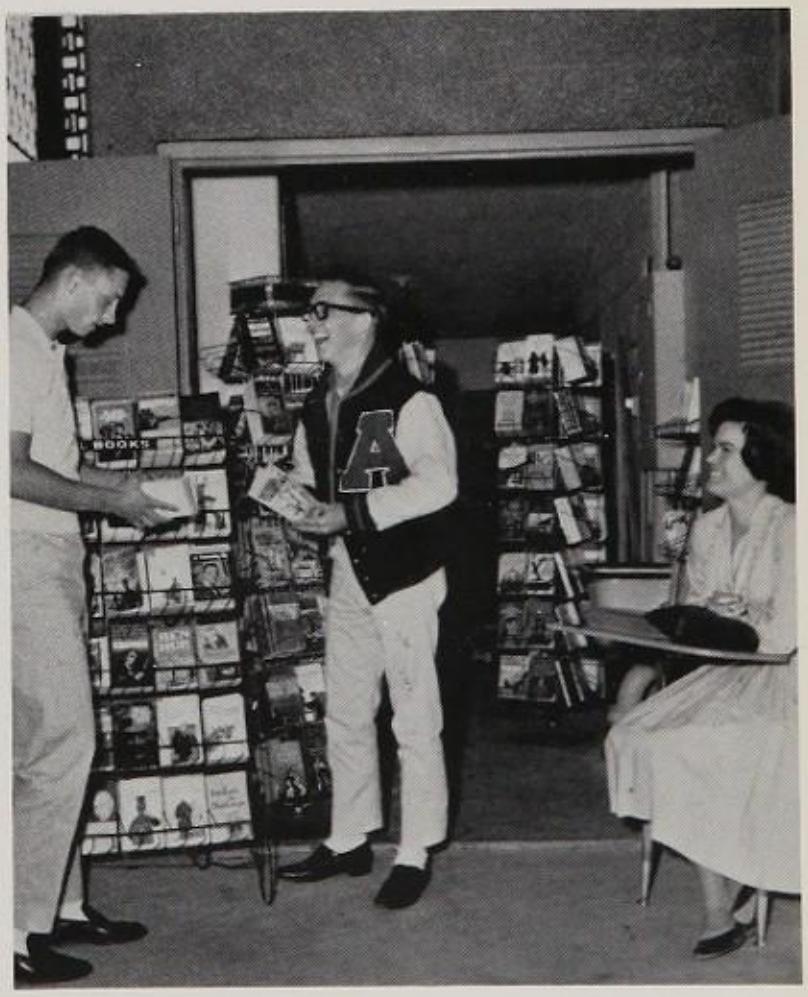
Through the combined efforts of Student Council and Student Senate, the faculty and students of Arcadia High School are brought into closer contact with one another. By learning each other's opinions and desires on matters of school policy, the administration, faculty and students cooperate to form a more successful school. Arcadia's "ship of state," headed by Captain Hil Brady, is sailing straight into a promising future. Certainly the "BIG A" is taking its place among the top high schools in the city, as well as the state.

Top: Mrs. Gretchen Helser, Mrs. Iris Widmark, and Assistant Principal Leonard Spooner check over student files. Bottom: For some students the most familiar view of the administration building is sitting on the inside looking toward the door!!

to Further Student-Teacher Relations

MEETING SECOND PERIOD, Student Council members George Durham, Marcia Harrington, Barbara Haupt and Mike Neer form a discussion group to decide questions pertaining to student activities. Student Council, headed by the student body officers, collaborated with the administration to form new school policies. Through active leadership, the "BIG A" enjoyed a successful year in athletics, scholarship, and enthusiasm. Student Council acts as the go-between for Student Senate and the administration.

MIMI LUNDIN, Student Senate secretary, looks over her minutes with Senate President Liza Bean. Betsy Hodges, a Senate member, talks with the two before the meeting.



NICK KARALES and Nelson Burns look over books in the Honor Society Book Store. Kay Benzel, salesgirl, watches the boys carefully to be sure they don't read the books before they buy them.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS . . . Seated: Audrey Dalassandro, Girl Rep.; Jackie Lindstrom, Secretary; Laurie Salisbury, Treasurer. Standing: Andy Ambrose, Vice-President; Tuck Stephenson, Boy Rep.; Randy Wright, President.

The 1963 Sophomore Class displayed all-around spirit by selling pennants before the football games to boost their class treasury. Since this was their second year at Arcadia, the high school routine seemed to be "old hat" to returning Sophomores. The Sophomore Class rated high in all academic achievements, as they laid the foundations of a rewarding high school career. The Junior year is truly in sight for the Sophomores of 1963.

SOPHOMORE CLASS SPONSORS, Mrs. Patricia Settlemoir and Joe Collingnon, get together to discuss possible future plans for the Class of 1965.

MRS. HELEN FISHER AND ERNIE BULLARD, Freshman Class sponsors, look over past and possible future achievements of the Class of '66.

The Freshman Class of 1966 included 450 students from Scottsdale Elementary Schools. Although classes, teachers, and routines were new to this class with a sparkling future, they participated in every phase of school activities. As the Freshmen set their goals, they became part of Arcadia. We are proud of them, and look forward to new leadership, spirit, and attitudes with the upcoming Class of '66.

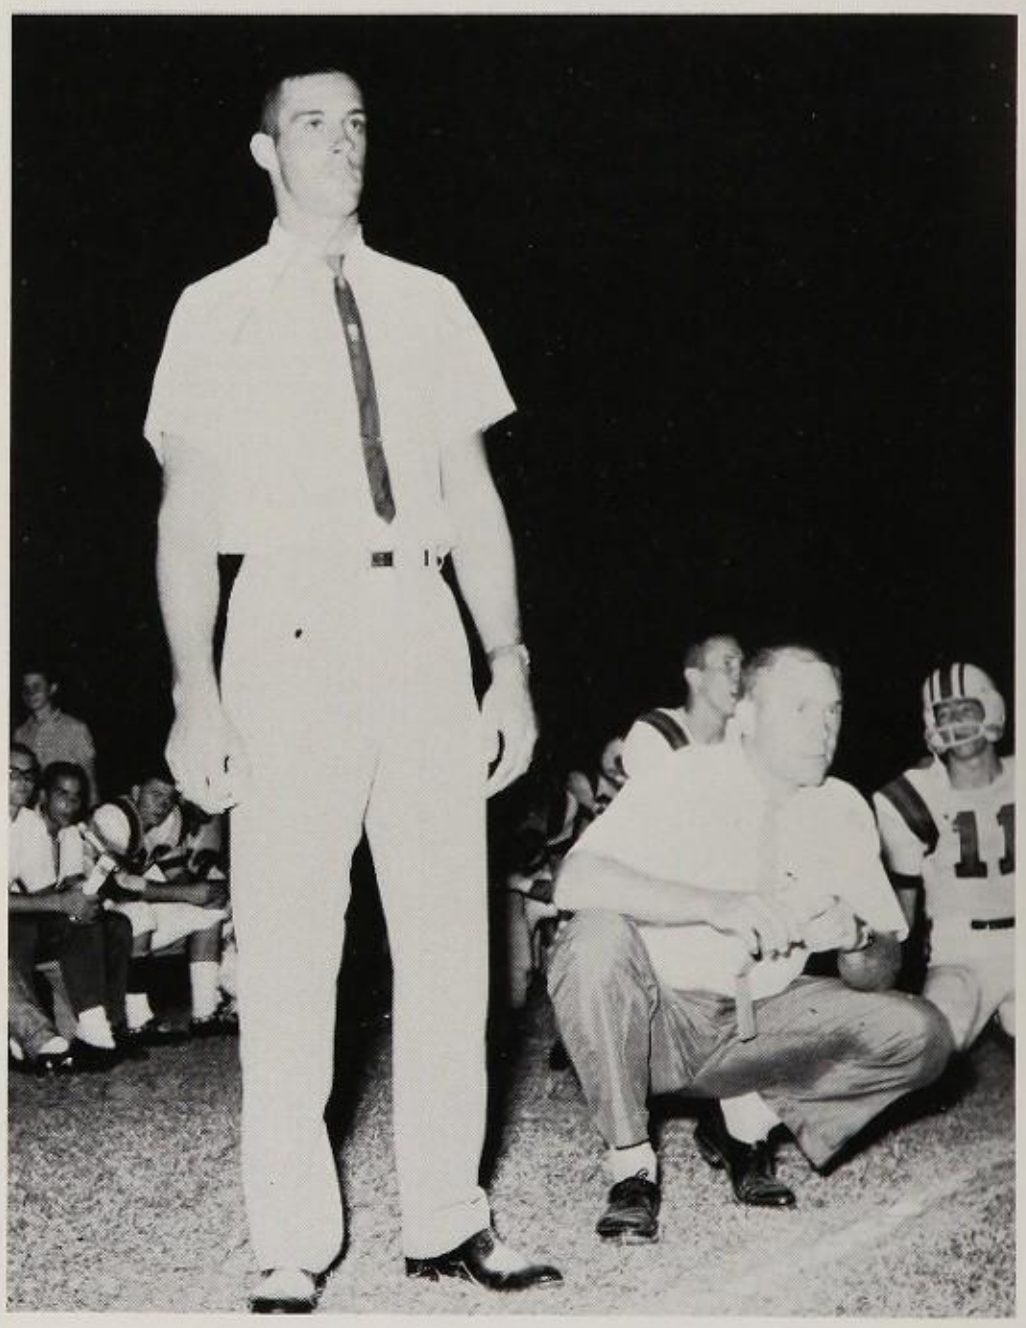
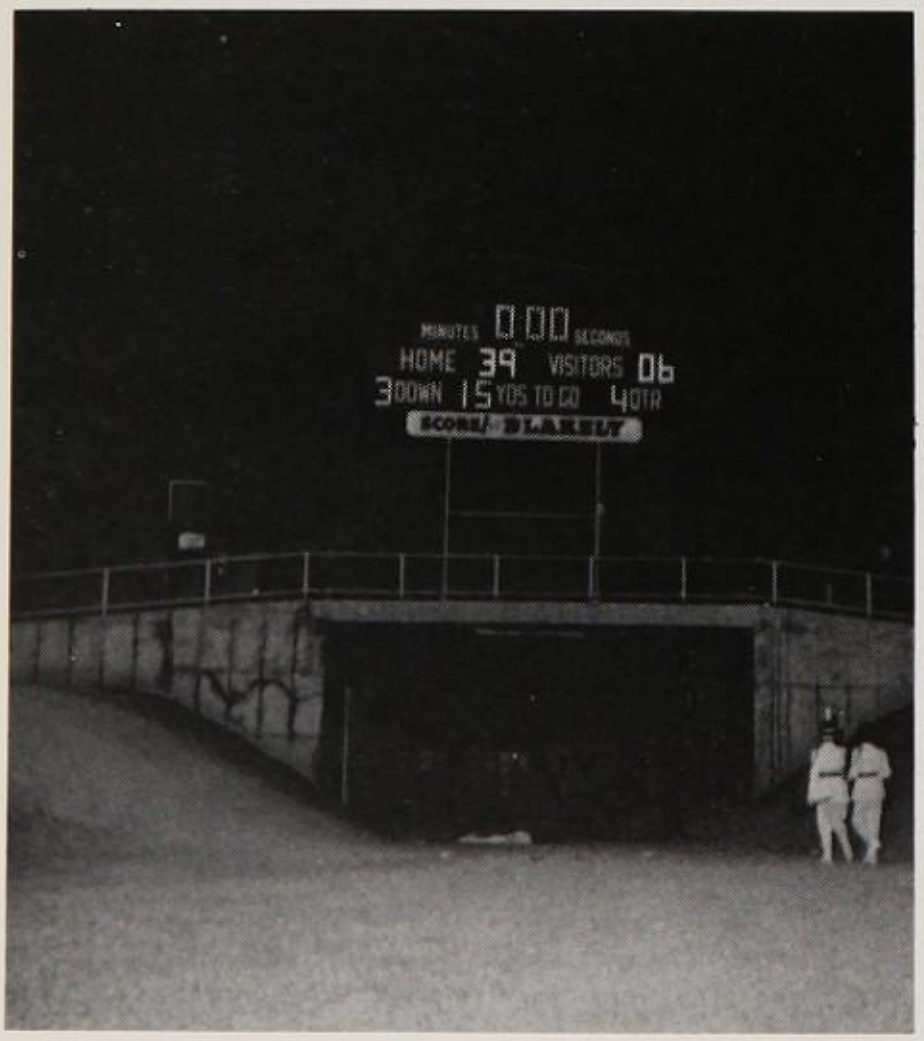
ACTIVITIES

Fun, Enthusiasm, Sportsmanship

Chuck Butler is caught on the goalpost while decorating it for a game.



With intense concentration, Coach Anderson and Coach Hendricks watch a play from the sidelines.



Looking at the scoreboard from outside the A.S.U. stadium, one gets the impression that someone is giving a pretty good licking. Arcadia was giving it (39) and Flagstaff was taking it (6) as shown by this beginning of fourth quarter score.

Arcadia Is as Big as Its Students

With the coming of winter, students "imported" a truckload of snow to the snowless valley. Arcadia was greatly surprised by this "gift."

At the last basketball game of the season, the Pom Pon Girls were given corsages in appreciation of their hard work and loyalty. Charlotte Schilling, Barb Haupt, and Marcia Harrington pin corsages on Connie Clark and Nancy Hoyer while Linda Jamison watches.

The yearbook staff worked diligently to put out the yearbook by the deadline. Nick Karales, Marty Williams, Dorothy Rossetti, Mary Katarski, Bill Walmsley and Linda Pomeroy pool their resources to complete a page.

STUDENT COUNCIL, representing the student body of Arcadia, promoted extra school spirit, and carried the name of Arcadia throughout the state. Besides sponsoring the Student Council District Workshop, members attended the Student Council Convention. There were also several representatives to the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

During the football season, Student Council members were extremely active. In addition to presenting pep assemblies, they sold Titan ribbons, sponsored the game tags, and decorated the goal posts. The successful Mesa Motorcade and the Homecoming ceremonies and dance were also Student Council activities. As a special touch, telegrams were sent to the team before each game. When play-offs came, there was a huge bonfire rally at the stadium. The Council also made it possible to light up an "A" on Tempe butte with flares, and to signal each touchdown with a sky-rocket.

In an active session, members discuss student government reorganization problems.

Senate Reaches More Students

STUDENT SENATE, in its second year of activity, became an important part of Arcadia student government. It provided an organization through which students could participate more actively in student government. Along with Student Council, the Senate helped with the homecoming dance and half-time ceremonies. Other projects, some in conjunction with Student Council, were carried out successfully. As the main project of the year, a fund to bring a foreign exchange student to Arcadia was started.

Student Senate consisted of a representative elected from each second hour class. Senators met weekly to discuss student problems and activities. Through activities, the student is brought closer to Student Council and the Administration.

Honor Students Form Active Clubs

What could be more appropriate than honor students selling books? As a fund-raising project, NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY members sold paper-back books pertaining to subjects the students were studying. As the year went by, more students who met the standards of citizenship, leadership, scholarship, and service were admitted. At a special assembly at the close of the year, several Sophomores of exceptional calibre were selected to join the honorary club.

¿ No Hable Espanol? Then you can not be a member of the SPANISH HONORARY CLUB. Open to students who received a "1" in advanced Spanish, the club gave an opportunity to practice language skills in everyday situations. At their meetings, which were conducted entirely in Spanish, they studied books not regularly available to them. They also conducted skits, complete with costumes.

Another gutterball! Well, it's all part of the game. In order to improve their averages, students formed the BOWLING CLUB. Another purpose was to provide competition and experience. Naturally, the main reason Bowling Club has so many members is that bowling is fun! If you forget the gutterballs and "almost-strikes," you will find that this game relieves tension and utterly relaxes you. Also, for uncoordinated people, bowling improves grace, coordination, lumbago, and your dancing. As Bowling Club members have found, bowling is a modern-day cure-all!

Busy as the proverbial bee, that's what D.E.C.A. was! As the members worked in various retailing and wholesaling jobs, they gathered "honey" (pronounced money) as well as invaluable experience. Because of the on-the-job training D.E.C.A. members received, they were better prepared to enter their particular field of interest upon graduation. Also, experience in business transactions made it possible to conduct all money-making projects so that they realized the greatest profit in every venture. The importance of D.E.C.A. to the individual members was realized by each, for they received the rewards of meeting and working with new people, and sharing many new experiences.

Fine Arts Groups Lent Culture

To boost actors' morale, the Drama Club served donuts after the dress rehearsal for each play. The hardworking cast and crew looked forward to the treat supplied by this forward-looking group. In addition to eating extra donuts, various members worked backstage on props and lighting while other members had acting parts in the plays. All this was for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the theater—understanding drama and gaining a working appreciation of theatrics. Drama members also read many plays and worked on skits during the year to gain more experience and knowledge of types of plays and characters.

If you draw, paint, or just like to dabble, you belong in the Art Club. They worked in every medium from chalk to oils in their various projects. For the Girls' League Christmas Prom, they made 60 feet of murals. Their chalk drawings depicted various outdoor winter scenes in blues and lavenders. They also made posters for the First National Bank, which were displayed at the Valley Ho Hotel. Concert posters were another project. With all the experience and training, Arcadia could well have a future Van Gogh or Picasso.

Tri-Hi-Y's Spread Good Fellowship

DELTA OMEGA TRI-HI-Y . . . Front Row: Mrs. Hahn, Sponsor; Micki McFadden, Connie Clark, Chaplain; Betsy Hodges, Sergeant-at-Arms; Barb Haupt, President; Lois Elliott, Secretary; Jerri Draney, Treasurer; Carol Kinzle, Vice-President; Merry McGwire, Historian; Mary Ann Mercier, Bobbie Davis. Row Two: Janet Walmsley, Joan Bauer, Robyn Houston, Betsy Samson, Pam Knight, Connie Meudell, Sharon Farmer, Susan Savittieri, Jeanni Brown, Alexis Karales. Back Row: Gayle Schafberger, Molly Mee, Sue Burdette, Susie Edwards, Jeannie Jorgenson, Karen Olson, Sue Orth, Carol Stromme, Sandy Shore, Audrey Delessandro, Cindy Johnson.

Car oil, eggs, shortening, molasses, and vaseline were flying through the air in early October as DELTA OMEGA TRI-HI-Y held its annual initiation. Delta members made red and blue Titan yarn dolls for lapels as one of their initial projects. Numerous devotional services, combined with cook-outs, were held in conjunction with other clubs. In the Spring, Delta selected new members by having the girls write letters of qualification.

Well, I never! Seniors licking lollipops! I'll bet SIGMA BETA CHI TRI-HI-Y is behind this. Yes, in order to earn money to help a needy family at Christmastime, resourceful members found a project that boosted school spirit as well as being a "sure fire" money raiser. Titan lollipop sales were not the only projects, for "Fight" signs and service projects were also part of the Sigma Beta program.

Promoting such things as driving with your eyes open and receiving points for not hitting pedestrians, SAFETY COUNCIL proceeded to rid our campus of "not-so-hot-shot" drivers. At an assembly early in the year, a movie recounting the tragedy that lies in store for careless drivers was shown. Safety was made into a good quality by the efforts of members working ceaselessly throughout the year.

Which club has the largest percentage of front door keys? Maybe it's KEY CLUB, but we wouldn't swear to it! But for their great service during the past year, Key Club deserves the key to the community. By working at the Crippled Children's Hospital, they promoted a project that would never be forgotten by those they worked with and helped. Boosting school Dance. The proceeds from their many activities went to morale, a Slave Sale was held at the annual Spring the "Dollar for a Scholar" fund.

Strike four! You're in—GAA! Arcadia girls got together for sports play-days every Saturday, and had intramural team competition every Wednesday. Providing girls with organized exercise was one of the most important functions of GAA. It provides the perfect solution to President Kennedy's "Youth Fitness" plea. A variety of sports, one for each taste, was offered. Ranging from basketball to ping pong, each was thoroughly enjoyed, regardless of skill. For exceptionally active members, letter sweaters could be earned. Not to be overlooked are the qualities of teamwork, loyalty, and sportmanship acquired through an activity such as this.

On Halloween, members marched in the fund-raising drive for UNICEF. Y-Teens also made turkey party favors for the children at the Gompers Clinic. As their largest project, they organized Teens Against Cancer as part of their club.

Cacti and sagebrush, along with man-eating plants and plant-eating plants, were part of the many unusual forms of life that became familiar to members of the Biology Club when they took their trip to the Boyce Thompson Southwest Arboretum. They also visited the new Arizoo, where the elephant, giraffe, and the Children's Zoo held the most interest for them.

"It can't be done!" moans John Propstra, president of LETTERMEN'S CLUB, as girls of all ages ask him how they can become members. He regretfully states that the primary qualifications of being a male is still in effect. As far as anyone knows, there are no plans to admit any girls in the near future, even though it would increase the attendance of present members. High on the list of annual activities is the traditional Spring initiation. Burlap underwear, frequent paddlings, and public declarations of loyalty to the club are just a few of the common sights. At the Lettermen's fall dance a new tradition was started. Keeping off of the "A" on the gym floor was enforced with gusto by an exuberant militia of members. Members also ushered at the Girls' League Fall Convention held at Arcadia.

No, that isn't a faded athletic sweater. He belongs to the BAND LETTERMEN'S CLUB! The blue letter sweaters were seen only occasionally on campus, for only a select few earned the privilege to wear them. Members started the year off with a money-making-spirit-boosting sweatshirt sale. Only members of the band could buy the attractive, royal blue shirts with "Titan Band" written in huge letters. During the concert season, the club promoted interest in semi-classical music with big posters. When the band went on tour during the Phoenix Rodeo, they plastered huge signs on the buses telling the world that "We're from Arcadia!" The annual "surprise" party for Mr. Brooks closed the year's activity with a bang.

Fencing, Rocket Clubs Add Variety

After being accepted into the French Foils, novice fencers were rewarded at the initiation party. During the year, they had fencing meets with several schools. Among these were A.S.U., Chandler, and Tucson. The most interesting meet was held in Mexico. After all the bouts, they had parties to celebrate. At the state tournament on February 16, the French Foils took nine of the twelve trophies. They lost one each to Glendale, U. of A., and Eastern Arizona Junior College. During the French Foils' first year, they created an outstanding record. They have maintained it through the excellent coaching of Mrs. Howard and a will to excel.

The objectives of the club are to gain valuable technical knowledge and experience in rocket construction, performance, and fuels; and to participate actively in this field by actual launchings. There have been six launchings which were conducted with absolute seriousness and caution. Going against predictions, the club has had no serious accidents. Launching facilities located north of Scottsdale consist of a blockhouse, near and far observation centers, a launch pad, electronic remote firing mechanism, and an electrical communications system.

Can you find the cubed root of 2,391 in your sleep? MU ALPHA members can't either, but they do come close. Speeches by prominent businessmen, educators, and scientists throughout the year, increased their knowledge as well as stimulated interest in mathematics. The students in Mu Alpha Theta are such good mathematicians that they received straight 1's and 2's in their advanced mathematics classes.

Guest speakers, field trips, demonstrations and films added interest to JUNIOR ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGICAL SOCIETY meetings. Studying physical sciences and engineering informed and aided in preparation for scholarships and college entrance. In order to be accepted into the club, students had to have a high academic standing and the recommendation of their science teachers.

"Sure, any girl can be a member!" The only club that can say this is Girls' League. In addition to being a super-active club, it is also a super-sized club. On December 8, 1962, the State Girls' League Convention was held at Arcadia. Six hundred girls from 118 schools heard a program based on "What a Difference a Day Makes." A week later, December 15, they sponsored the annual Christmas Prom. They also sold Titan sweat shirts and held a spring fashion show. The major activities were the Mother-Daughter Tea, and the Brotherhood assembly.

All the money raised by the American Field Service Club went toward getting a foreign exchange student for Arcadia. $950 had to be raised by February 15. In order to help raise this large sum in such a short time, Girls' League and the Lettermen's Club both donated $100, and Student Senate raised money for them.

Who? What? Why? When? Where? The five W's of newspaper work were always in the minds of Arcadian staff members. If you asked it, they supplied the answers. Student Council and club news, the honor roll, the latest fads, and all the sports news were faithfully and fully covered. Wednesday nights were always hectic, for that was "paste-up" night. Last minute pasting and writing added to the unorganized atmosphere, but the staff always managed to pull through and get the paper out in time. By selling ads, the staff also helped finance the newspaper. With a record number of papers, the staff captured the life blood of the school on six pages. It was all done with talent and hard work.

Deadline day! Why, I haven't even got enough pictures to fill up one page! Suicide, anyone? Of course, no one jumped off the library or had their hair turn grey, but there were many sleepless nights and chewed pencils to show that Olympian staff members took their jobs seriously. Using their original ideas, staffers wrote copy, made up headlines and planned picture layouts. Between this, they found time to sell yearbooks to the students, with the loosing team buying hamburgers for the team that sold the most books. They also planned and put on the annual yearbook assembly where they crowned Miss and Mr. Olympian. If that wasn't enough, they spent some of their vacation time preparing the summer supplement. Along with hamburgers, impromptu parties when the staff was in a slump made this class unusual. Staff meetings where everyone did nothing, staying up until dawn to write copy, trotting to the office to verify information—all will be cherished in the yearbook of memories.

Carol Kinzle and Marti Williams, co-editors, hunt for new ideas with the help of Mr. Carpenter.

Record Crowd Attends Ceremonies

Witnessed by a record number of students, both past and present, the 1962 Homecoming ceremonies took place in an aura of heavy suspense and gay frivolity. Last year's king and queen, Carl Granzow and Darlene Holman, crowned the new king and queen as the hushed stadium held its breath. Nancy Kelly and Pat McGinty were chosen to reign until the 1963 Homecoming. Their attendants were Cindy Johnson, Jeanni Brown, John Propstra, and Everett Rollins.

At the dance following the game, class competition was stressed. Each class built a display on the "Mediterran Myths" theme. The winning display represented the idea that the Arcadia football team did indeed have "The Midas Touch." It was created by the senior class.

A very happy couple, Nancy Kelly and Pat McGinty, lead the procession off the field after they were crowned king and queen.

Homecoming attendants were John Propstra, Cindy Johnson, Jeanni Brown, and Everett Rollins.

King Pat and Queen Nancy share the dance that was reserved for them.

Christmas Prom

The fourth annual Christmas Prom was built around the theme of "An Old-Fashioned Christmas at a Ski Lodge." The walls were covered with murals depicting the various winter scenes you would see upon looking out of the lodge windows. The tables were decorated with red and white checkered table cloths, with centerpieces of pine boughs and miniature Christmas trees. A huge tree, strung with popcorn, paper chains, and old-fashioned paper ornaments, stood in a corner.

The most important part of the prom was, of course, the crowning of the Queen. Last year's queen, Jean Wright, crowned Charlotte Schilling as the 1962 Christmas Prom Queen. The princesses were chosen from the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes. The Princesses were Lolly Williams, Junior Princess; Laurie Salisbury, Sophomore Princess; and Martha Mee, Freshman Princess.

Sandy Shore, Gene Reid, Martha Cook, and Don Cox enjoy the romantic mood of the Christmas Prom.

"Enchanted Garden" was the theme of the Twirp Prom held in the gym on Saturday, February 16. The mood was set by green and white decorations and round garden tables, with music by Carl Ritter. Last year's Twirp queen, Julie Durrell, crowned Merry McGwire as the new Twirp queen. Tom Parker, one of last year's attendants, crowned John Flores as king. Attendants were Carol Stromme, Toni Wanic, Andy Owen, and Art Piccinati.

Come on! Let's hear you yell now! Let the team know you're here! . . . Remember, the dance starts step, turn, kick. There's the music! Good luck! . . . Pompon Girls and Cheerleaders were busier than you think. Besides what you saw at games and assemblies, there were a million and one extra things to do. For instance, that new cheer or dance had to be learned and perfected. This entailed long hours of practice to make the timing precise. After school, huge, bright pep banners were painted and plastered on walls around the school. The Pompon Girls, along with Vaunda Hammett, our State Champion baton twirler, marched with the band during football season and in the parada del Sol Rodeo parade in March. The lively cheerleaders also decorated goal posts and made the hoops for the team during football season. Yes, this was all part of being a Pompon Girl or Cheerleader.

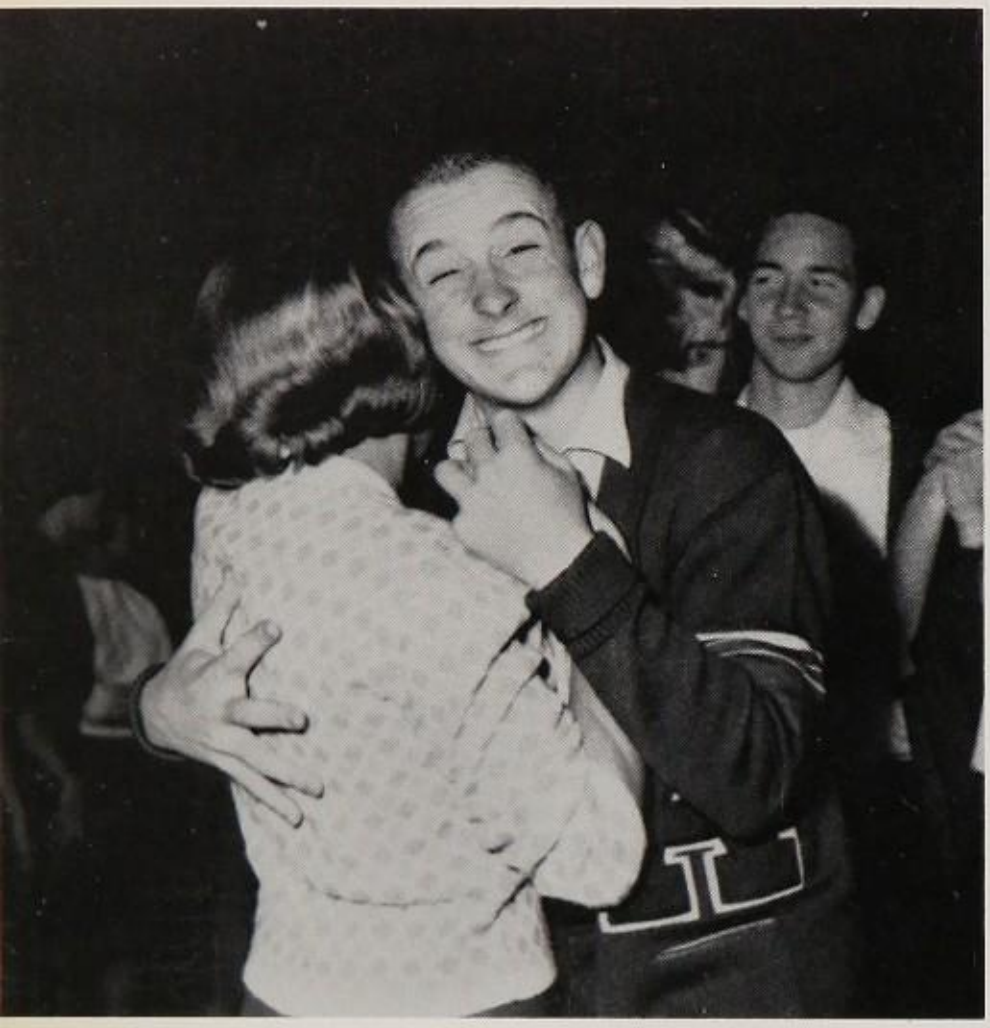
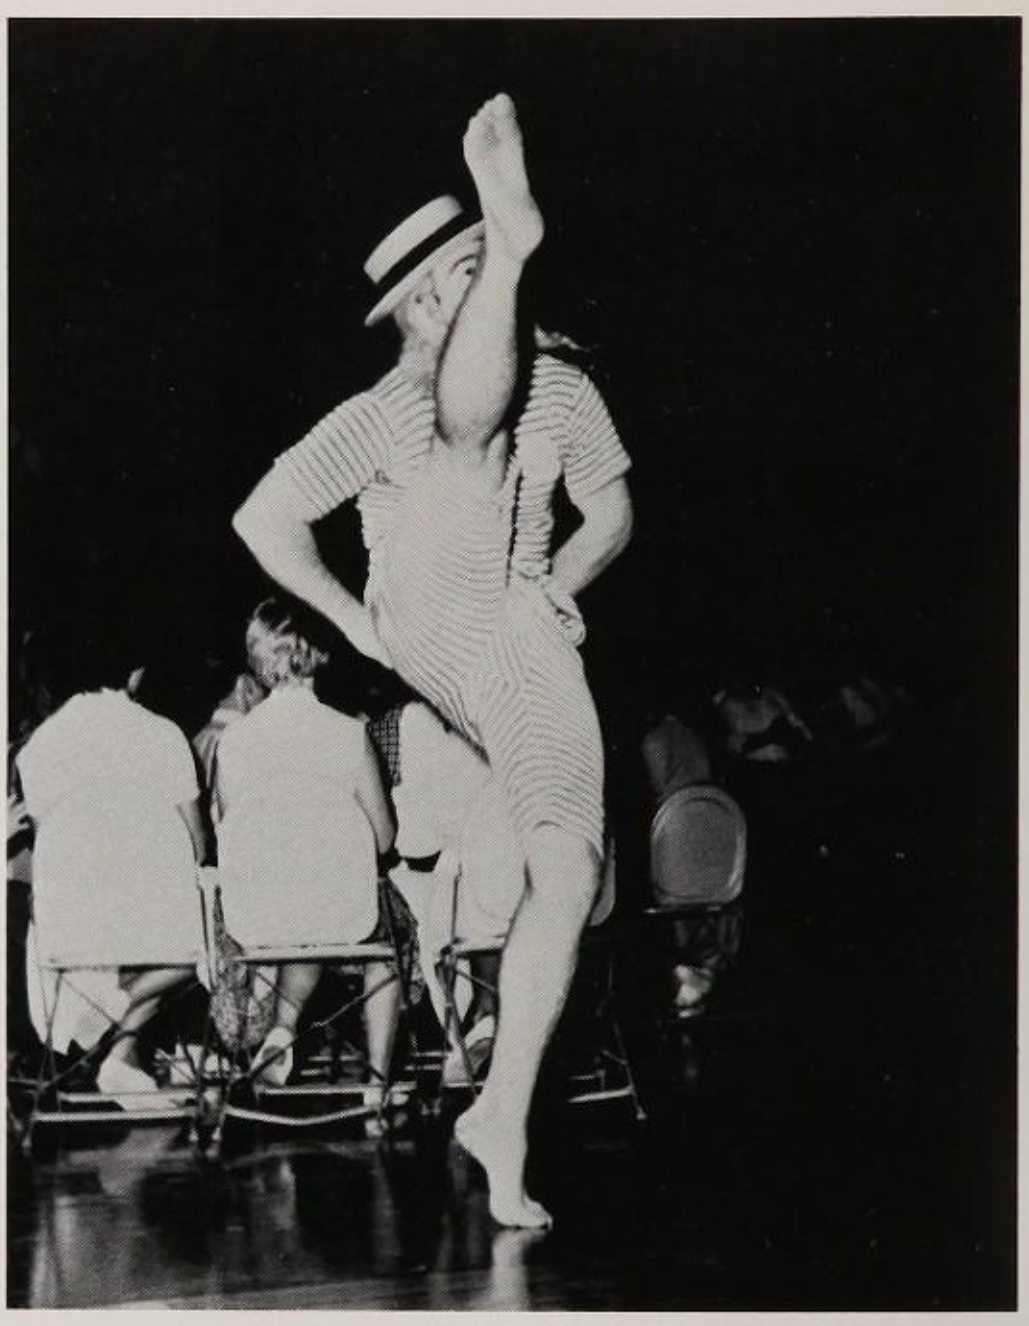
Titans Display Dancing Skill

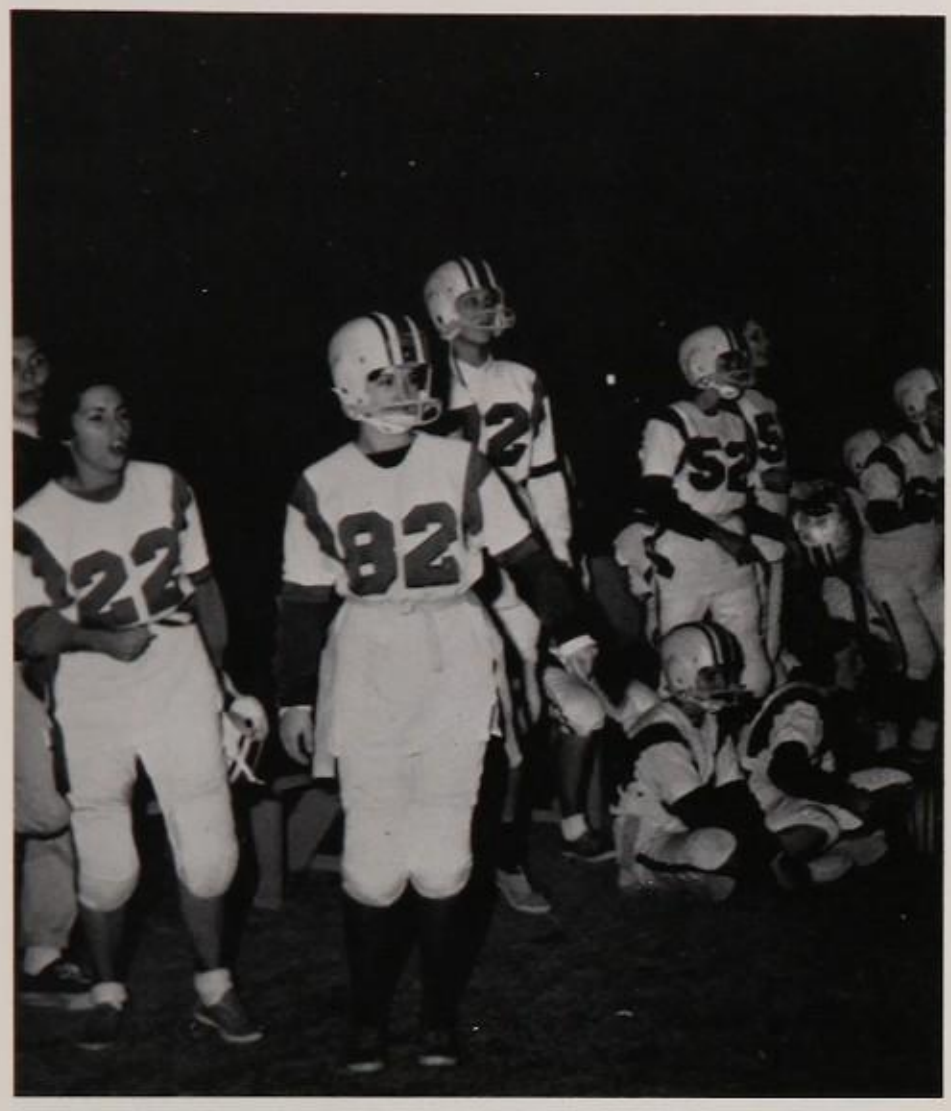




Above: Joe Porter clowns it up with his date and friends at an after game victory dance. Right: A pom pon girl? No, it's only Chuck Butler dancing to the fight song at a pep assembly.

The victory dance after the Chandler game was a huge success, as shown by the very crowded gym floor. Everybody enjoyed themselves immensely after the Titan's 8th straight win.

Senior Stompers Squash Mints



The Senior Stompers watch an exciting play from the bench.

The tension mounts in the locker rooms; the coaches are pacing back and forth; hardly a word is spoken. This is it! The big game of the season! No, it's not the state championship, just the 2nd annual Powder Puff football game. The crowd cheers as the Senior Stompers and the Junior Mints take the field. The Stompers, coached by Steve McLeod and Dave Herskovits, won the toss and elected to receive. Jeff Richardson, head coach for the Mints, gave his final instructions from the sidelines and the game began. Gloria Ecklund took the kickoff and returned it to the Mints 35 yd. line. A sweep right and then a reverse left put the Stompers on the scoreboard. In the second quarter the Mints drove downfield for their first score of the evening. The try for the extra point failed, and the score at half-time stood at 7-6, Stompers. The second half was a defensive battle, with no score by either side. The game ended 7-6, in favor of the Seniors.

Twirp Week

Girl: How've you been lately? How's your car been running these days? . . . That's good. Say, uh, would you like to go to the Twirp Week dance with me?

Boy: Well, er, I think my mother's going to be sick this Saturday. But thanks anyway. Maybe we can get together later, but I've got to go now, so 'bye. Better luck next time.

Was this the way it went for you?

It was for some girls, but most of the boys came through and accepted.

Brad Morfitt, Tuck Stephenson, and Randy Wright model the hats their girl friends gave them during Twirp Week.

"Come on, just a few more steps," says Jay Rondeau to Dorothy Rossetti. Instead of just having girls carry their books to class, some boys had the girls carry them to their classes.

Titan Band Marches Through

The Arcadia Titan Band, under the direction of Reginald Brooks, played an active part in school life. At football games the band provided new pre-game or halftime shows all during the season. Members also provided side-line music, and music for pre-game pep assemblies. When the band put on a show, the Pom Pon Girls and Vaunda Hammett, the band's talented baton twirler, were featured. The band also showed its capability when it was asked to give a half-time show at the All-Star College Bowl in Tucson. They gave a show of typical routines which had been practiced throughout the year.

VAUNDA HAMMETT, featured baton twirler with the Marching Titan Band, displays an example of what hard work and perseverance will do. Practicing incessantly, Vaunda has been the number "1" twirler in the state for several years.

In addition to football activities, the band gave three excellent concerts during the year, and played for the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. The Titan Band also marched in the Parada Del Sol Rodeo Parade. As a special activity, the band went on a three day concert tour of Southern Arizona in March.

They also gave two concerts during the year for friends and parents. The J.V. Drama Department Entertained Students

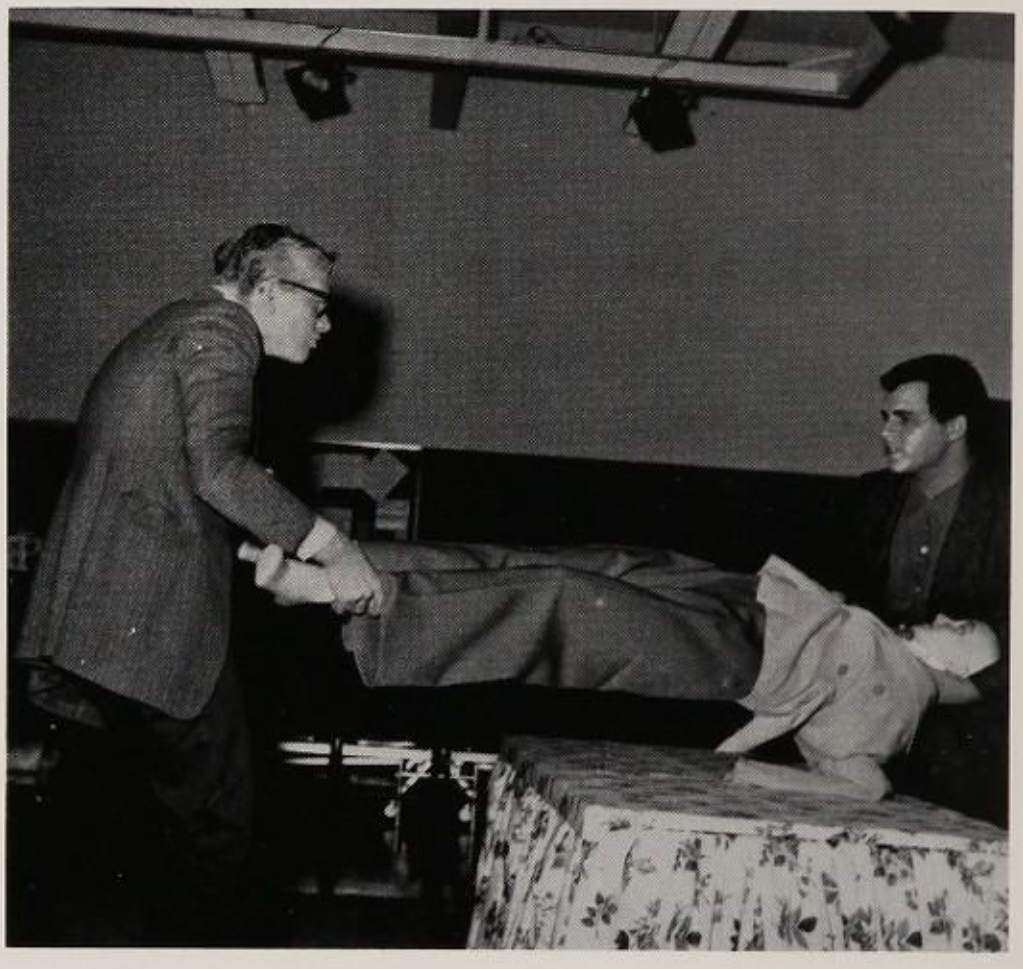
"Drink up, Dearie," exults Mary Stalnaker, as Andy Owen unsuspiciously drinks some poisoned Elderberry wine. After he drinks the wine, they plan to bury him in the cellar, along with their other victoms.



Clark Lorhr and Larry Sher struggle for possession of the dead body (?) that they put in the window seat for safekeeping before disposing of it in the Panama Canal, or cellar.

Larry Sher, Clark Lorhr, Mary Stalnaker (back to camera), and Beth Weber rehearse a scene from "Arsenic and Old Lace."

"Arsenic and Old Lace" and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" were two outstanding productions of the Drama Department. "Arsenic and Old Lace" was presented in-the-round October 16, 17, and 18. It was the comical story of two sweet old ladies and their strange hobby. Other unusual characters included their nephew, Teddy, who was digging the Panama Canal in the basement, and Dr. Einstein, the mad plastic surgeon.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" was presented in the auditorium on December 13 and 14. The story portrays the pedantic Sheridan Whiteside and the havoc he creates during his "visit." Besides introducing a colony of cockroaches, 21 Chinese students, and three convicts to his adopted household, he disrupts the usual sanity of the entire Stanley family.

"Guys and Dolls," presented in the Spring, was the big musical of the year at Arcadia. Along with the Twirp Talent Show, presented February 14, "Guys and Dolls" gave interested students a chance to try their hands at both music and acting.

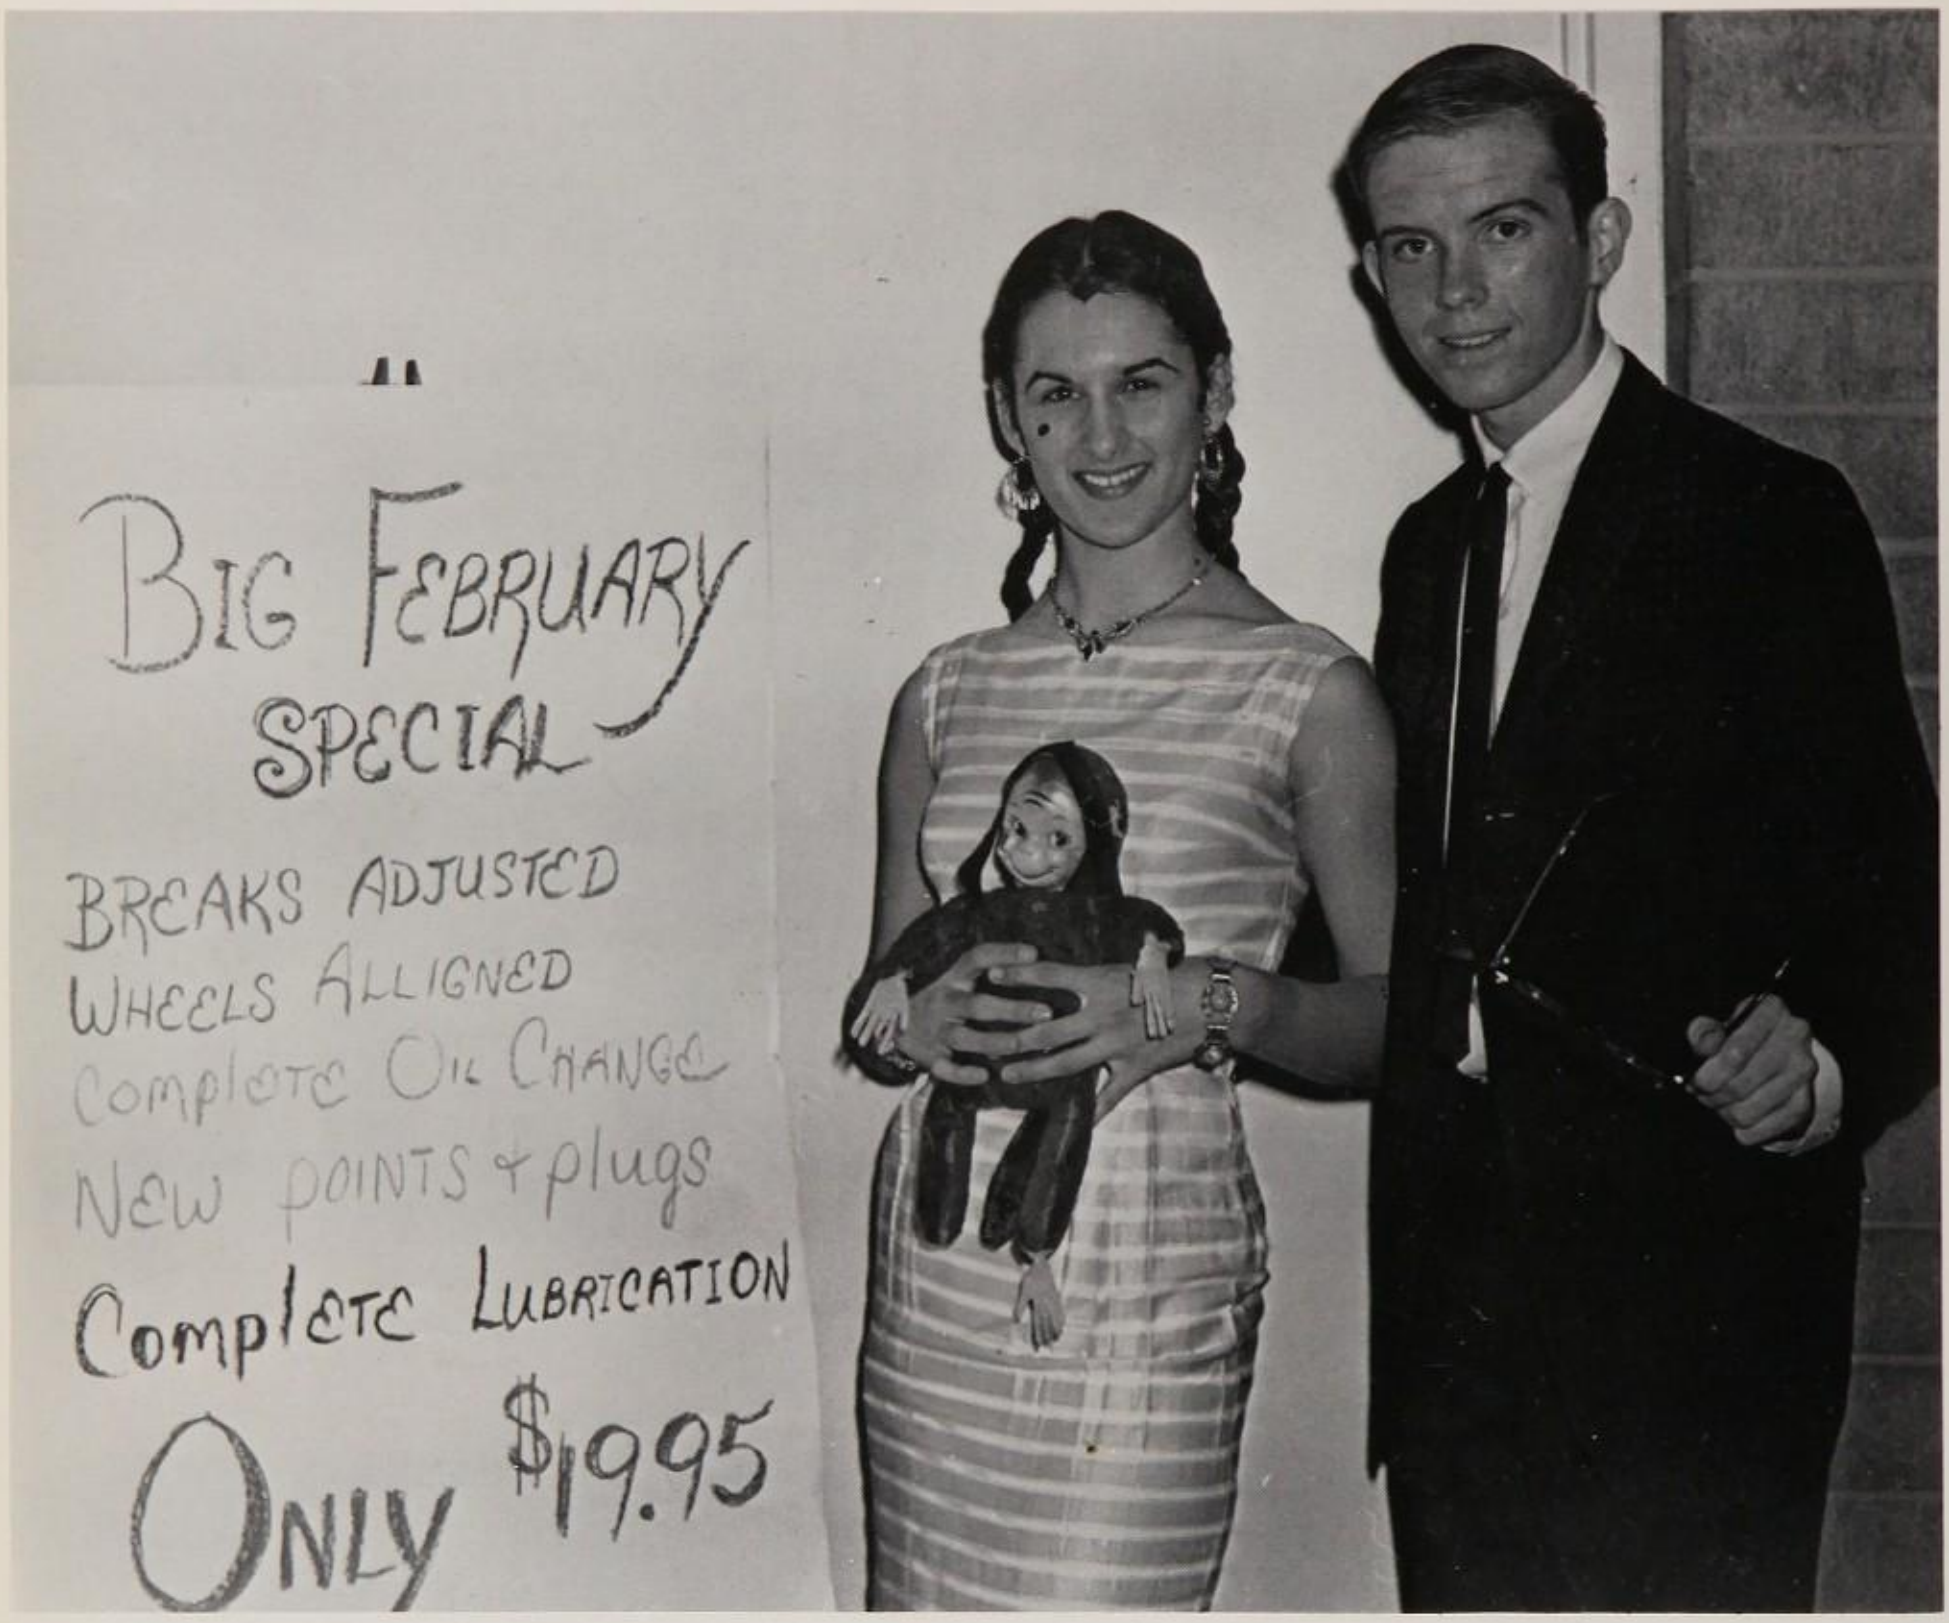
New Techniques Used by Actors

Rick Cook, Larry Sher, Kristen Oden, and Andy Owen pause for a picture during dress rehearsal of the "Man Who Came to Dinner."

Sheridan Whiteside, played by Mike Neer (seated), looks scornfully up at his doctor, played by Chuck Emery.

Beverly Wilcox, playing the eccentric old maid sister of the Stanley family, pins a sprig of holly on their butler, played by Wayne Greene. Kip Lindbloom, far left, the son of the Stanley family, is grouped with Beverly and Wayne in this scene from the play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which was presented in December.

Arts and Craft Classes Paint,



AQUANETTA, as played by Beth Weber, made her appearance at the February 14 Talent Show. Portraying her husband, Jack Ross, is Andrew Owen. Giving a near perfect imitation of the famous "Aquanetta technique," Beth and Andrew gave the audience a tremendous chuckle.

ENLIVENING the Twirp Week Talent Show were Bob Robyn, Kristen Oden, Roger Sheer, Carolyn Owen, Chuck Case, and Don Conroy. Their rendition of an old-time "melerdrama" was very convincing.

Mold, Sketch, Polish, and Learn

PAT McGINTY and Mark Dill work on their projects in the crafts room. Pat is polishing a ring, while Mark cleans up after finishing his project.

CLEANING her brush and paint jar after completing a picture is Darlene Wright. Students appreciate the art room sink when they have paint on their hands or clothes.

Art and craft classes have had a hand in the beautification of the Arcadia High School campus this year. Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Burrell and Frederick Moore, the fine arts classes tried their hands at different techniques in art work. A combination of talent from the art classes resulted in the murals that covered the gym during the Christmas Prom, and for the scenery used in the Drama Department's plays.

The craft classes made pottery and other articles of clay, as they learned and progressed through the year. Hand tooling of leather belts, and making objects of metal also shows the varied equipment available to students.

Learning to blend paint and paper successfully, Mrs. Burrell's art classes have progressed rapidly. The future artists of tomorrow are in Arcadia's art classes today.

STUDENTS in Mrs. Burrell's art classes work with the aid of easels and slanting tables.

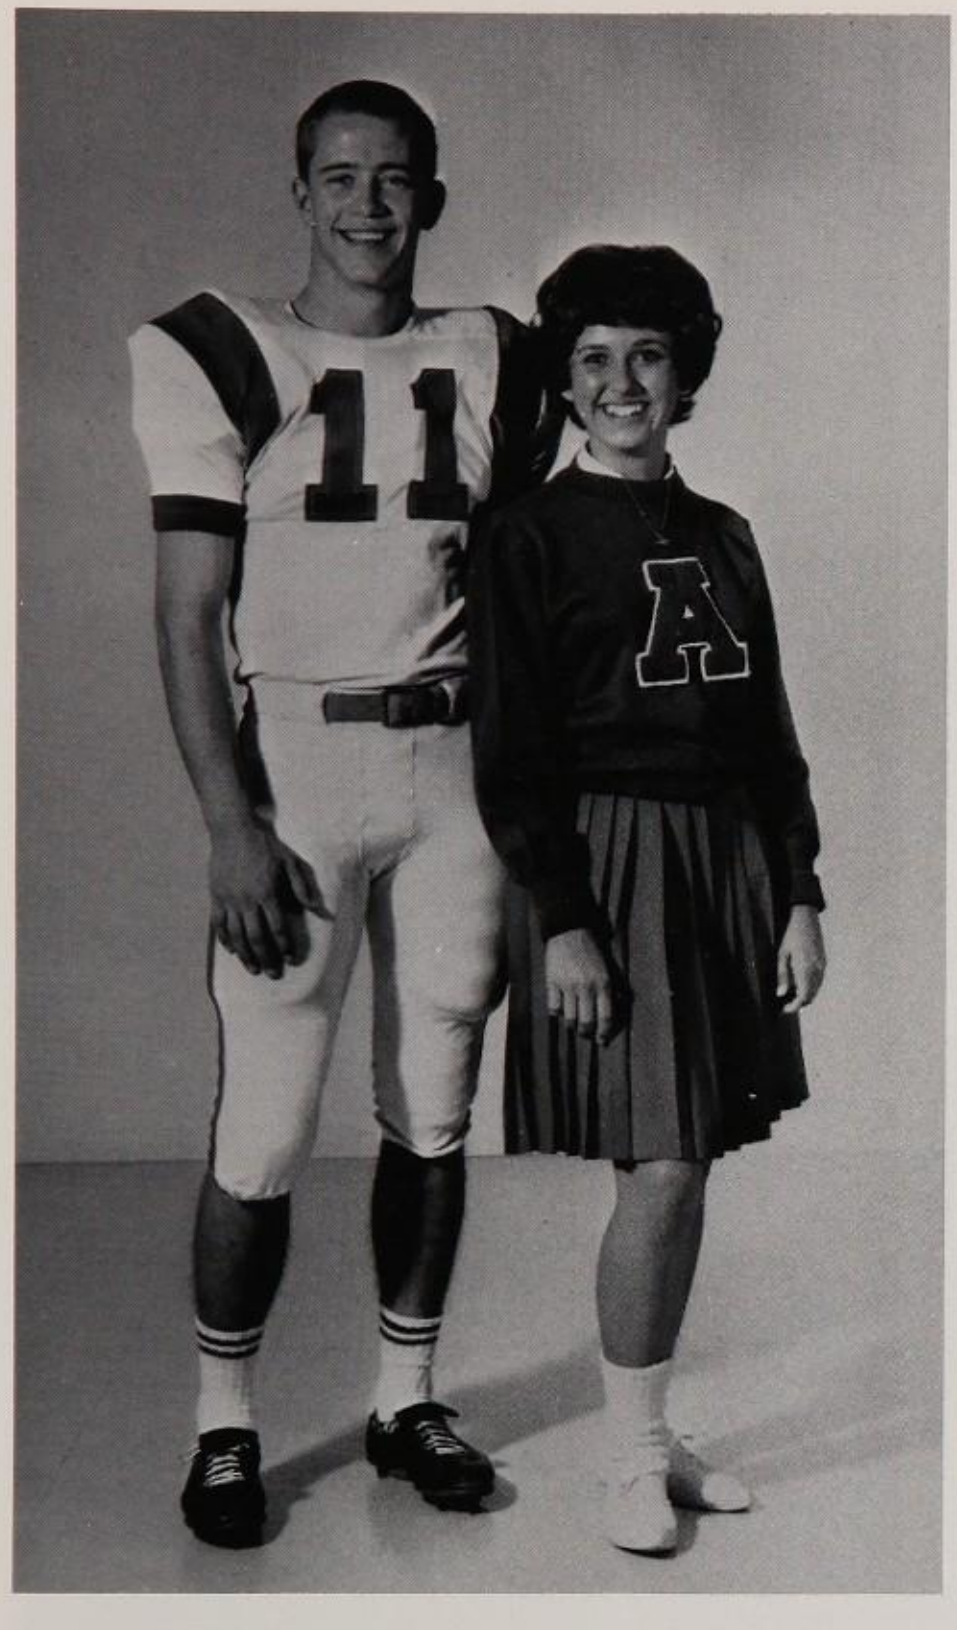
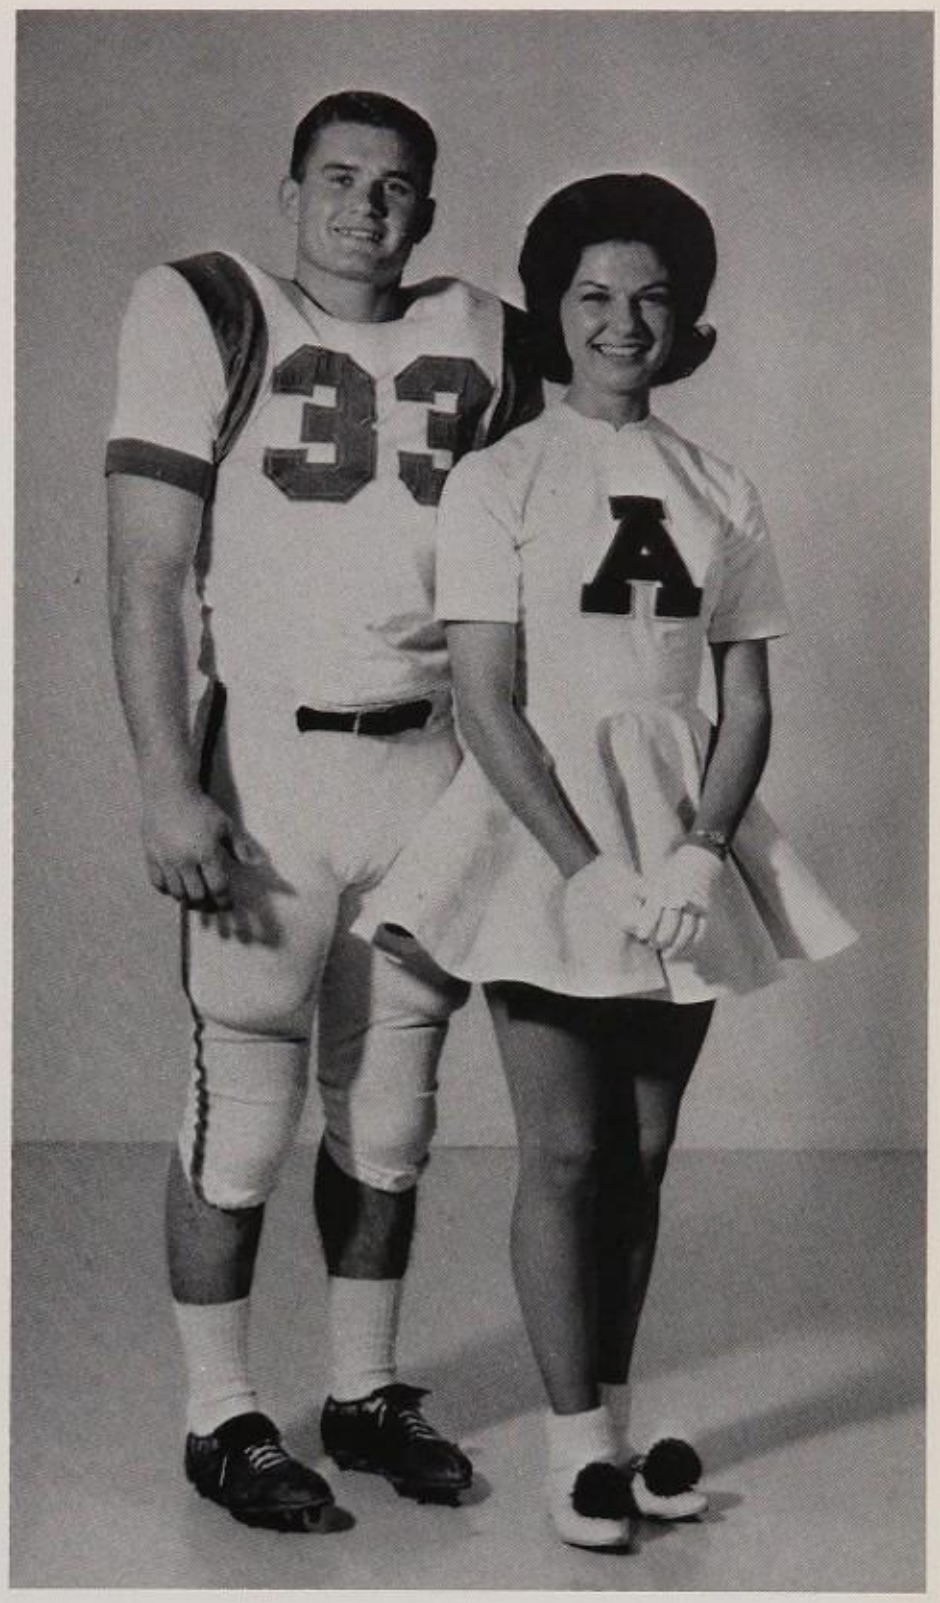
Pat McGinty and Nancy Kelly

Victorious Occasion



ATTENDANTS: John Propstra, Jeannie Brown



ATTENDANTS: Everett Rollins, Cindy Johnson

Nancy Kelly squeals with excitement as she is crowned 1962 Homecoming Queen by Darlene Holman. Barb Haupt holds the coronation bouquet.

The lights illuminating the football field were dimmed, a blue spot-light shone brightly, the band began to play the processional and the Homecoming Royalty paraded onto the field. The music stopped suddenly as the Royalty formed a semi-circle in the heart of the band formation. The stadium crowd grew quiet as Carl Granzow, last year's Homecoming King, crowned Pat McGinty Homecoming King for 1962! The audience displayed their delight with streamers and noise until Darlene Holman, last year's Homecoming Queen, crowned Nancy Kelly Homecoming Queen for 1962! The crowd went wild! Slowly, Royalty and Attendants walked off the field. The band then marched briskly off. The game continued and Arcadia, playing Kofa, soon seized its sixth victory to complete the evening's triumph!

Christmas Prom Queen

In order to be eligible for Christmas Prom Royalties, a girl has to be an active member of Girls' League. The names of the eligible girls are placed on posters around campus and the student body selects the candidates. Couples attending the Prom are given a ballot upon entering the dance, and vote according to class rank. The senior girl chosen is the Queen of the Prom and the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman are the respective class Princesses.

Charlotte Schilling, Christmas Prom Queen for 1963, is an active senior at Arcadia High. Her activities include being President of Sigma Beta Chi Tri Hi-Y, and a member of Safety Council. Also on her busy schedule are Girls' League, and being the senior class Girl Representative.

Jeanni Brown and Molly Mee, both seniors, were attendants at the annual Girls' League sponsored function.

and Prom Princesses

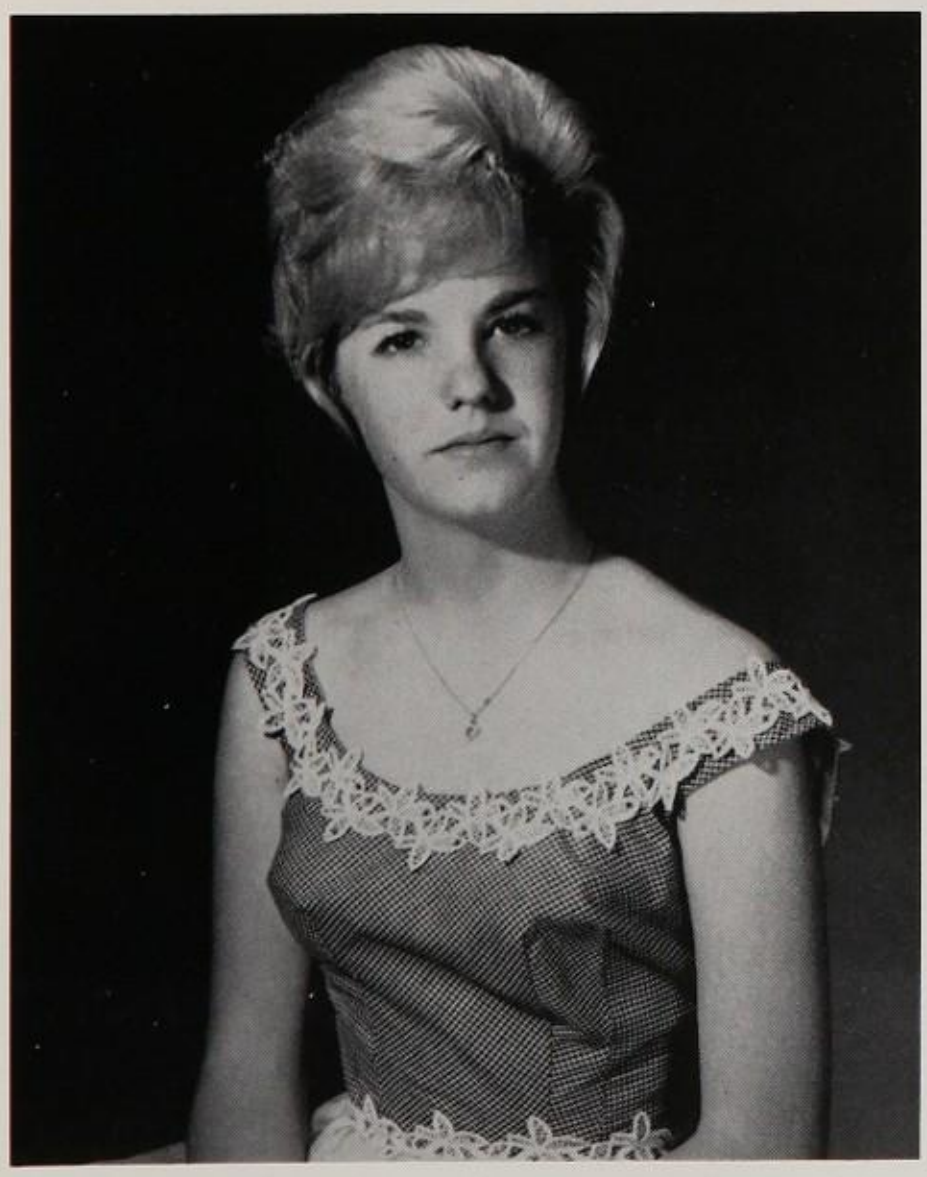
Laura Williams, Christmas Prom Princess for the Junior class, is a transfer from Indiana. Her activities on campus include Powder Puff football, Girls' League, and American Field Service Club.

Laurie Salisbury, Sophomore class Prom Princess, is a member of the Girls' League Council. Her other activities include being Sophomore class Treasurer, and a member of the Marching Titan Band.

Martha Mee, transfer from Texas, was chosen as the Freshman class Christmas Prom Princess. Martha is the Freshman class representative to Girls' League Council.

The results of the election were announced by Carole Stromme during the intermission. George Durham, student body president, presented each of the winners with a bouquet of red carnations. After the coronation, the four couples took advantage of their reserved dance. Harold Kay and his Band supplied the music.

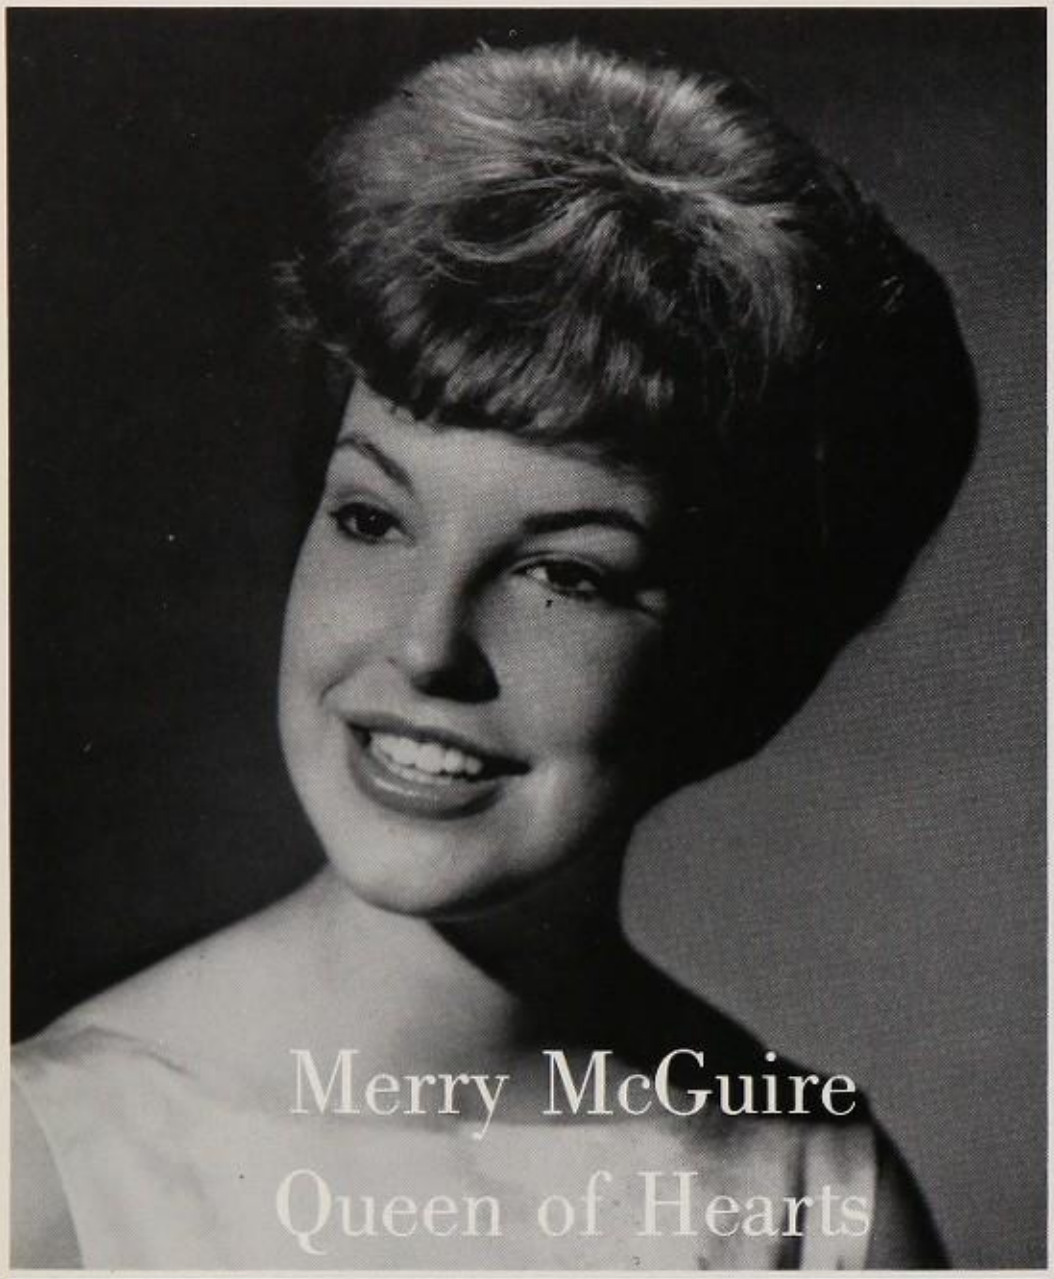
LAURA WILLIAMS, Junior Princess



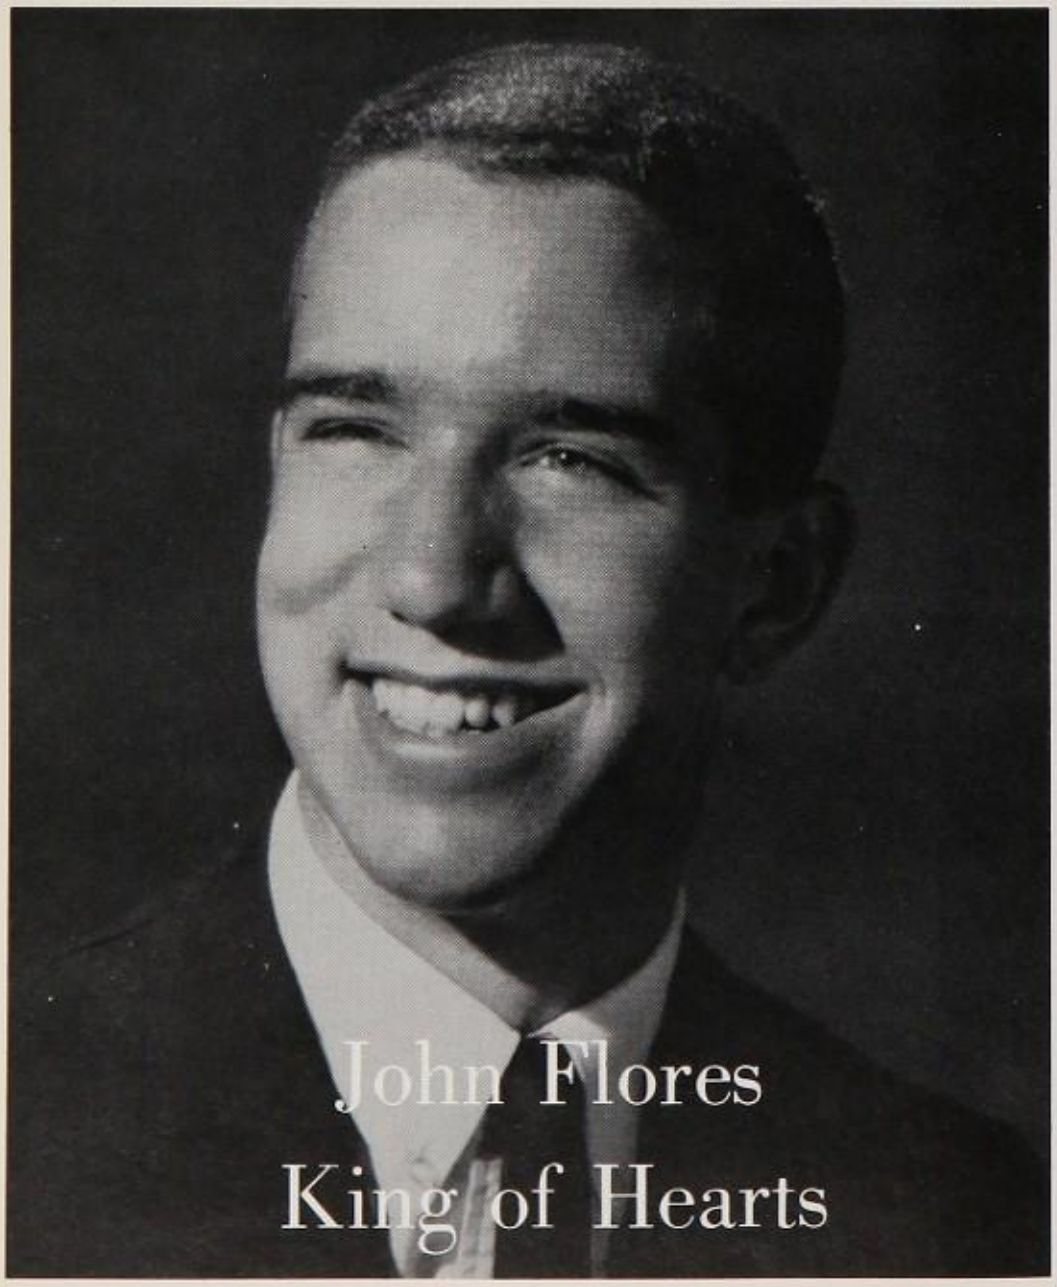
MARTHA MEE, Freshman Princess

LAURIE SALISBURY, Sophomore Princess

McGuire, Flores Chosen Twirp



Merry McGuire
Queen of Hearts



John Flores
King of Hearts

It was a dignified occasion. John Flores and Merry McGuire had just been announced as King and Queen of Hearts. Then just as they were crowned, the band, low on information but high on enthusiasm, struck up a lively, jazzy number.

Expecting a softer, more flowing tune to correspond with the occasion, the Royalty stood looking at each other with dumfounded expressions.

Immediately one of the sponsors heroically stepped up and informed the band director on the type of music expected. Soon a more appropriate sound was floating about the gymnasium.

As is traditional at every Twirp dance, the Royalty and their partners danced their soli while the students attending the dance gazed on.

At the conclusion of their ceremonious exhibition, the band joyously played its choice of a "catchy" melody and the students joined the King, Queen and attendants whirling around the floor.

The evening ended with the collapsing of the crepe paper ceiling, which climaxed the close of a memorable evening!

An active senior, Cindy's activities include the office of Student Body Secretary, Delta Omega Tri Hi-Y, Captain of the Pom Pon line, and National Honor Society. Traveling by car loads to Tucson, Arcadia seniors enjoyed a delightful "on campus" feeling.

Pretty senior Nancy Havinghurst was chosen by the senior class of Arcadia High School to represent them in the 1962 Arizona State University Senior Day princess competition. The Senior Day activities, held in November, attracted Arcadia students as well as those from all over the state. It gave students a chance to view the campus first-hand, and to attend an ASU football game, compliments of the University. Nancy's participation in extra-curricular activities this year includes "X" Club, Y-Teens Treasurer, and Sigma Beta Chi Tri Hi-Y.

The 1962 football season began with Arcadia hosting their northern opponent, Prescott. This gave the Titan team a good start by downing the Badgers 20 to 0. The next week the Arcadia eleven chalked up a 37 to 19 victory over Catalina. Then Arcadia left their home field to play the annually tough Mesa Jackrabbits. The Titans came back with a 21 to 13 victory. Arcadia then played host to their cross-town rivals, Scottsdale. Arcadia's "wrecking crew," composed of Dana Woudenberg, Pat McGinty, and "Moose" Rollins, took command of the field to dam the Beavers 44 to 0. When the Titans trekked to Goodwin Stadium to meet Tempe, the Arcadia camp held its winning streak to crush the Buffaloes 34 to 0. The following week undefeated Kofa bowed to the Titans 26 to 20 after a tough battle. In the contest with Coronado, Arcadia downed the Dons 36 to 9. Then the Yuma Criminals stole a 12 to 8 victory from the Titans. Arcadia overpowered Chandler 40 to 0 during the last conference game. In the play-off game the Titans opposed Flagstaff and secured a 39 to 6 victory. For the championship match Arcadia conquered the Tucson Badgers 40 to 7 to gain the final award of AA State Champions.
